Lisbon, Portugal (AP) — A British ship in a hastily assembled rescue fleet Tuesday night was reported evacuating hundreds of terror-stricken inhabitants from the volcanic Azores island of Sao Jorge amid worsening waves of earthquakes.

Some reports said that at least 47 island homes had crumbled and that hundreds more were in danger of collapse.

Most of the island's 20,000 people were reported gathered in a village at the eastern tip awaiting rescue by ships urgently summoned from their courses in the nearby eastern Atlantic.

Grows Worse

The U.S. Air Force Base at Lajes, 20 miles away on Terceira Island, said the tremors on Sao Jorge "have gradually gotten worse."

Some tremors were felt in other islands of the mountainous Azores chain, a Portuguese possession in the Atlantic Ocean 1,000 miles west of Lisbon.

The radio at Angra on Terceira Island said the British cable ship Mirror had arrived at Sao Jorge and was picking up refugees.

An American ship, the Steel Director of the Isthmian Line Inc., was also believed to have arrived at Sao Jorge.

Abandoned
The Portuguese news agency ANI said in a dispatch from Sao Jorge all six of the villages on the 35-mile-long island have been abandoned because of tremors that started last Friday.

"The ground is trembling almost continuously," the dispatch said. "The people of Sao Jorge feel like shipwrecks on a raft."

The earthquakes have gradually gotten worse," the Lajes base reported via radio-telephone. "We don't know the extent of the damage."

Delayed

The base had a U.S. Air Force C-54 rescue plane standing by, but high winds and rain prevented it from taking off.

The islanders' SOS was relayed to Lajes by radio from a boat on Faial Island, just south of Sao Jorge, it said.

"Important damages. Many ruins. Request all navigation available in proximity proceed southern coast this island render assistance."

Cyprus And Britain Clash
Over Role Of U.N. Council

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Cyprus and Britain clashed Tuesday night over the role of the U.N. Security Council in establishing an international peace force to be sent to the strife-torn Mediterranean island republic.

Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou of Cyprus declared that the peacekeeping force should be under control of the council and empowered to protect Cyprus from outside aggression.

He said first consideration should be given to a call by the council for a guarantee from all states to protect the territorial integrity of his country.

Kyprianou declared that once the council acted on a guarantee against aggression "we are open to suggestions and ready to discuss" the peacekeeping aspect of the situation and the details of a settlement.

'Point Way'

Earlier Sir Patrick Dean of Britain asked the council to let his own country, Cyprus, Greece and Turkey work out with Secretary-General U Thant the establishment of the peace force. Under Dean's proposal the council would only "point the way" toward a solution.

Dean withheld submitting a formal resolution pending the outcome of private consultations Thant is holding with U.N. diplomats for resolving the Cyprus issue.

Satisfied

Diplomatic sources said Cyprus was generally satisfied with Thant's idea of linking the international force to the Security Council through him and a policy committee made up of him and three council members.

They said Cyprus liked Thant's idea that the council should adopt a resolution guaranteeing that country's independence and territorial integrity — and he was still waiting for a Turkish reply on this notion.

Kyprianou hurled a long list of charges against Turkey, accusing that nation of following a long-standing policy of interference and provocation all aimed at establishing partition of Cyprus between the Greek and Turkish elements.

Denies Charges

Turgut Menemencioğlu, Turkey's ambassador to Washington, denied the charges and accused the Cyprus government of making "distorted and falsified" claims in coming to the Security Council.

Taking the floor after Cyprus, the Turkish delegate spoke of a "hideous massacre planned and perpetrated by the Greek Cypriot terrorists against the defenseless Turkish community."

He declared that the Greek Cypriot leaders on Cyprus do not desire any police force on the island but would like "some kind of U.N. resolution which they could pretend to interpret" as putting an end to existing treaties.

... HOUSE UNIT REPORTS

Washington (UPI) — The Joint Chiefs of Staff agree unanimously that the United States should press forward with work to design a new manned bomber as successor to the B52 and B58, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The House Armed Services Committee released testimony in which Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, said studies had strengthened the belief of the Joint Chiefs that a new bomber was urgently required for the 1970's.

The final decision on whether such work will be undertaken on the scale sought by the military leaders is up to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara. He has put more stress on missiles than LeMay.

Reliable

In a companion development, however, Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., of the House committee said LeMay and McNamara agree that America's missiles are reliable. The congressman said his House committee shares this view.

Vinson made the statement when asked by two Democratic members of the House Rules Committee about Sen. Barry Goldwater's charge that U.S. missiles are undependable. Goldwater has raised the issue several times during his campaign for the GOP presidential nomination.

Vinson appeared before the rules committee in connection with a $16.9 billion defense procurement and research authorization bill. In considering the measure, the armed services committee added an extra $52 million for the proposed manned bomber.

The administration had asked for only $5 million to continue studies on the plane.

The armed services committee made public heavily censored testimony on the bill, now scheduled for a House vote Thursday.

LeMay told the committee that he was "extremely concerned" over the lack of a new bomber to replace the B52 and B58.

Strengthened

"Studies undertaken during the past year have strengthened our belief that an advanced strategic manned aircraft is urgently required to complement our missile capabilities during the 1970 time period," he said.

He said the Joint Chiefs also agreed unanimously that development work should be pushed on a new improved manned interceptor. The House committee, taking the cue on this also, put in an extra $40 million for the interceptor.

LeMay said he was not disparaging U.S. long-range missiles but "we are relatively inexperienced in the missile game at the present time."

Conceded

LeMay conceded in the closed-door testimony that he disagreed with McNamara's more optimistic estimates of U.S. missile survivability after an enemy strike against this country. The general indicated he thought they were too high.

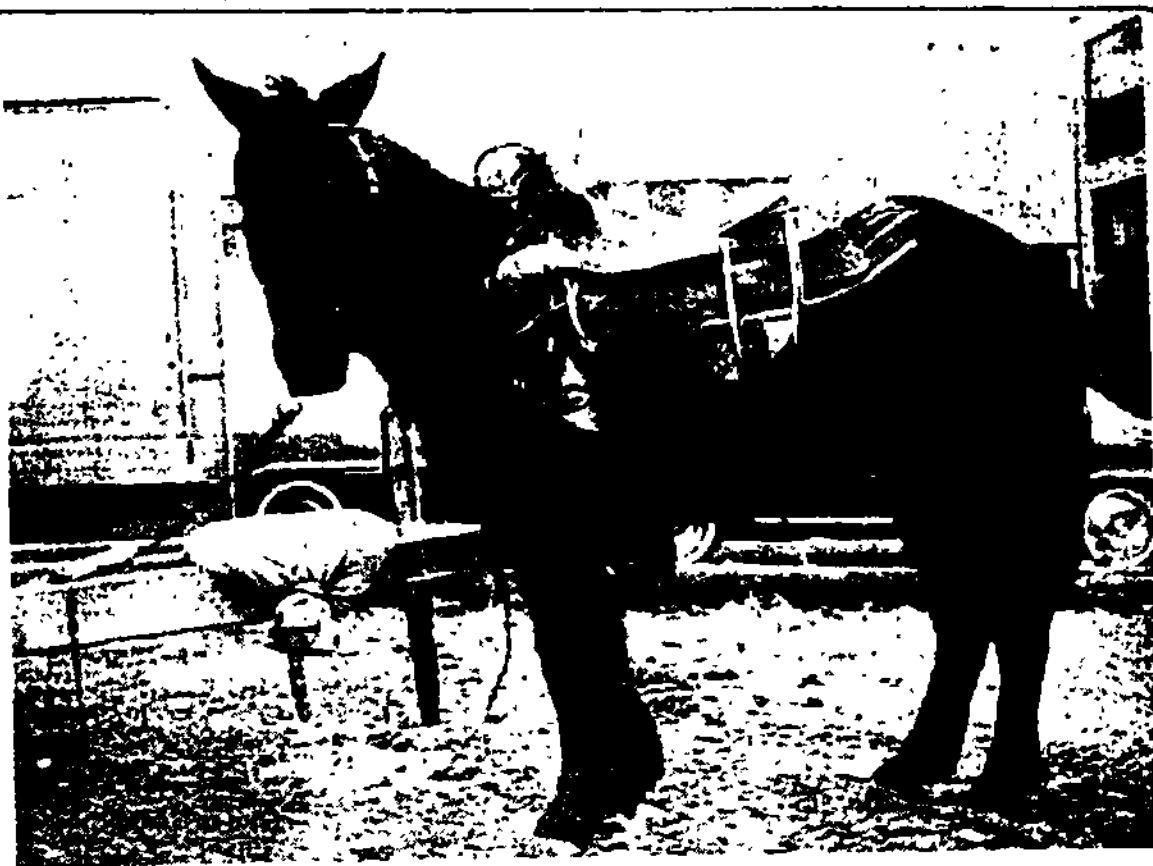

On the controversy over missile reliability, LeMay's testimony was heavily censored. However, he said all missile systems follow the same pattern, that is they come in with a low reliability rate at first.

"As we get experience with them and debug them, and shake them down, this goes up," he said.

Not Completed

He said all the operational testing on U.S. long-range missiles is not completed yet. He said there also is "a lot of difference between firing a Minuteman at Cape Kennedy with a factory crew and under research and development conditions and firing one out of Montana with a crew of airmen."

Even so, LeMay said he had asked for more missiles than McNamara was willing to approve in the new defense budget. He cited this as proof that he was "not against missiles."

Housing Code's
Use Is UrgedBy VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Mayor's Council on Human Relations urged Tuesday the "immediate enforcement" of the city's minimum housing standards code and directed this request to Mayor Dean Petersen and the City Council.

"Failure to do this makes it virtually impossible to provide standard housing for minority groups and others within the city of Lincoln," the resolution stated.

During the two-hour meeting, the council also authorized member Herb Hopkins to arrange "a tour of numerous locations needing immediate action" for city and county officials responsible for the code's enforcement.

Council Chairman Carroll Thompson also urged that the Home Builders Association of Lincoln (HBAL) and the Board of Realtors endorse "immediate enforcement of the minimum housing code."

Incentive, Coordination
Council discussion suggested "both incentive and coordination" within the city administration need to be developed for enforcement of the minimum housing code.

In other action, Bob Peterson, vice president of the Home Builders Association of Lincoln, reported the incorporation of Opportunity Homes Inc. is going forward, but several problems are being encountered.

The non-profit corporation, sponsored by the HBAL, would provide low-income housing on a private enterprise basis to aid the city's needy.

A week ago, the HBAL announced plans for 10 to 20 houses to be constructed along the lines of a Tulsa, Okla., project for low-cost housing.

For Rental Only
However, Peterson said the Lincoln houses must be initially constructed for rental only until the anticipated amendment of federal law.

Peterson said Lincoln must have a "workable program for minimum housing" before below-market financing can be authorized by a federal agency.

He said some changes in the minimum housing code to meet federal standards, and sufficient enforcement personnel, are needed.

Chairman Thompson and member Joe Hampton were delegated to request Mayor Petersen to implement necessary efforts to obtain a federal "workable program certificate" for the city.

To Remove Deficiencies
This work was indicated as removing any deficiencies in the city's minimum housing code as compared with federal requirements and development of an enforcement program.

In another resolution prompted by published reports that the Governor's Committee on Human Relations is considering recommending state legislation, the council reaffirmed "its faith in the voluntary approach to human relations problems in Lincoln and emphasized its opposition, at this time, to passage of laws for attempts at solutions."

Challenge
Paxton, challenging a review by Dr. Everett Peterson, University of Nebraska College of Agriculture extension economist, said, "We have heard the part of the USDA today. As hard-headed ranch people we don't buy it."

Peterson said his talk was not to sell anybody's program and not to justify beef imports but that economists generally were in favor of liberal trading policies.

Reports that Gov. Frank Morrison had taken a favorable approach to the USDA agreement with Australia and New Zealand brought comment from the objecting cattlemen, "that the Governor better look this one over closer if he has the best interests of the state's largest industry under consideration."

Dr. William E. Colwell of Hay Springs, chairman of the State Agricultural Committee of Public Relations, challenged Finner's claim. He compared the five year periods c 1954-58 and 1959-63 to demonstrate a 5.8% increase in domestic beef production and a 204% increase in imports.

STEED READY
MASTER WASN'T

A lonely cow pony stood waiting in a downtown alley Tuesday — and posed a new problem for Lincoln police.

The faithful steed was ready for the getaway.

But, his 66-year-old master wasn't. The man was arrested before he had a chance to gallop away.

Officer Charles Graham said the man admitted taking a jar of anchovies and a can of condensed milk from Kushner's Shur Save Grocery, 1733 O.

Then police pondered the problem of the pony. Capt. Robert Sawdon decided that towing it to police headquarters wasn't the answer.

So, the man was allowed to ride the horse home, care for it and another one there, and then returned to jail.

Enders Bank
Loot Found In Colorado?

Wray, Colo. (AP) — Stacks of mouldy currency were found Tuesday in sagebrush 18 miles north of Wray.

The currency is believed to be part of nearly $23,000 loot from the robbery of an Enders, Neb., bank on April 14, 1962.

Undersheriff Harold Williams of Yuma County was searching for the money Tuesday and spotted parts of a $20 bill in the sagebrush. He found the pile of currency about four feet away.

Williams said there probably was more than $10,000 in the wad, but that the exact amount will not be known until it is examined by the FBI laboratory.

Williams went to the Wray area for a detailed search. The FBI had prepared a map based on information from three men arrested in the case. All were captured soon after the robbery. Two 36-year-old men, Charles W. Evans and Richard Davis, were arrested north of Wray. The third man, 34-year-old Charles E. W. Saxton, was taken into custody in Omaha.

Another cache of about $10,000 was found by a road crew shortly after the robbery.

35-Man Crew Quits
Storm-Battered Ship

New York (AP) — The 35-man crew of a storm-battered and sinking British merchantman abandoned ship Tuesday within sight of a passenger liner. But hours after darkness had fallen their fate was still unknown.

The liner, responding to an SOS, had lumbered through strong gale winds and mountainous seas to the side of the stricken vessel, about 660 miles southeast of Halifax, Nova Scotia. Other vessels sped to the scene.

A Coast Guard plane said the crew took to lifeboats at 1:50 p.m. CST. The plane dropped three lifeboats.

Standing By

The Italian line's flagship, Leonardo da Vinci, stood by as crewmen of the stricken vessel, the Ambassador, abandoned ship. She maneuvered alongside one life raft, but reported it was empty.

Another raft tipped over, but the seven men righted it and struggled back aboard, the Coast Guard said.

The Coast Guard plane headed back to its base, and its skipper, Lt. Clyde C. Robbins, said he didn't think the Ambassador would stay afloat through the night.

Of the crewmen's chances of survival, he said:

"That depends upon whether they're in the rafts."

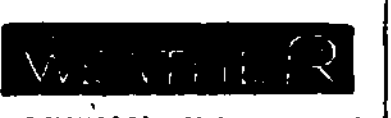

He said the aircraft had swooped to about 150 feet to send the rafts into the side of the floundering ship.

"We waited until they started getting into the life rafts before we left the scene," he said as the plane landed at the Shearwater Naval Air Station in Nova Scotia for refueling.

On the Scene

A Canadian aircraft reached the scene shortly after the Coast Guard plane. A Norwegian vessel, the Fruen, arrived on the scene at 8 p.m.

Also available to the 35 men aboard the stricken vessel, the Ambassador, were two 10-man life rafts. Thunderous 35-foot seas had stove in her forward hatch, smashed her portside lifeboats and flooded her engine room.

Nebraska Cattlemen Blast Beef Import Pact

Nebraska ranchers and cattle feeders joined forces at a Beef Cattle Supplies and Prices Conference at the Nebraska Center Tuesday to fire the first salvo of opposition at the U.S. State and Agriculture Departments for an agreement that will allow Australia and New Zealand to continue importing near record shipments of beef to the U.S.

Chet Paxton of Theodor, past president of the Nebraska Stock Growers Association called the agreement "a hell-of-a sellout of the livestock industry."

Arden Johnson of Exeter, president of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association, promised, "a fight against the agreement that would start at our shores and extend to the nation's capitol, into the stockyards and to wherever the American cattleman could go for relief from imports that are bringing ruin to a major industry."

The meeting followed by a day the USDA announcement that an agreement had been signed with Australia and New Zealand that imports could continue in 1964 with but a six percent reduction from record 1963 highs. Imports increased from 267 million pounds in 1958 to 1,859,000,000 pounds in 1963, or nearly 11% of domestic production. National and state cattle organizations had asked that beef imports be limited to five percent of domestic production.

The USDA action would still allow more than 10% of domestic production to be imported, say the cattlemen.

Resolution
Following a day-long meeting that found cattlemen verbally sparring with economists on the reasons for low cattle prices, the ranchers and feeders passed a resolution that read:

"We 60 feeders and ranchers who are actively engaged in the cattle industry of Nebraska deplore the action of the State Department in signing the agreement to bring foreign beef imports into the country. This agreement reduces imports by only six per cent of 1963.

"The level of foreign beef to be imported under the new agreement still will be over 10% of our domestic consumption.

"We commend our Nebraska congressional delegation for their efforts toward a realistic quota of foreign imports and ask that they protest vigorously to the State and Agriculture Departments their bureaucratic action.

"We further request our Nebraska delegation to implement an all-out effort to reduce the high level of imports that is now bringing ruin to many people in the cattle industry."

Dr. Winn F. Finner, USDA staff economist of Washington, D.C., said it was the conclusion of the department that if a 1962 embargo had been placed on imports that cow prices would have been $3 to $4 per hundred higher.

He also said that of the $3.70 general drop in choice steer prices between 1962 and 1963 only 50 cents could be charged to imports with $3 accounted for by increased domestic supply, and the balance to competition from other meats.

Dr. William E. Colwell of Hay Springs, chairman of the State Agricultural Committee of Public Relations, challenged Finner's claim. He compared the five year periods c 1954-58 and 1959-63 to demonstrate a 5.8% increase in domestic beef production and a 204% increase in imports.

Keith Burney of Hartington, livestock feeder and official of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association said, "The whole talk delivered to us by the economist has been on the part of the consumer interest, it is about time we start thinking about the producer instead of Australia and New Zealand interests, and other interests."

Challenge

Paxton, challenging a review by Dr. Everett Peterson, University of Nebraska College of Agriculture extension economist, said, "We have heard the part of the USDA today. As hard-headed ranch people we don't buy it."

Peterson said his talk was not to sell anybody's program and not to justify beef imports but that economists generally were in favor of liberal trading policies.

Reports that Gov. Frank Morrison had taken a favorable approach to the USDA agreement with Australia and New Zealand brought comment from the objecting cattlemen, "that the Governor better look this one over closer if he has the best interests of the state's largest industry under consideration."

STEED READY FOR GETAWAY, MASTER WASN'T

A lonely cow pony stood waiting in a downtown alley Tuesday — and posed a new problem for Lincoln police.

The faithful steed was ready for the getaway.

But, his 66-year-old master wasn't. The man was arrested before he had a chance to gallop away.

Officer Charles Graham said the man admitted taking a jar of anchovies and a can of condensed milk from Kushner's Shur Save Grocery, 1733 O.

Then police pondered the problem of the pony. Capt. Robert Sawdon decided that towing it to police headquarters wasn't the answer.

So, the man was allowed to ride the horse home, care for it and another one there, and then returned to jail.

Enders Bank Loot Found In Colorado?

Wray, Colo. (AP)—Stacks of mouldy currency were found Tuesday in sagebrush 18 miles north of Wray.

The currency is believed to be part of nearly $23,000 loot from the robbery of an Enders, Neb., bank on April 14, 1962.

Undersheriff Harold Williams of Yuma County was searching for the money Tuesday and spotted parts of a $20 bill in the sagebrush. He found the pile of currency about four feet away.

Williams said there probably was more than $10,000 in the wad, but that the exact amount will not be known until it is examined by the FBI laboratory.

Williams went to the Wray area for a detailed search after the FBI had prepared a map based on information from three men arrested in the case. All were captured soon after the robbery. Two 36-year-old men, Charles W. Evans and Richard Davis, were arrested north of Wray. The third man, 34-year-old Charles E. W. Saxton, was taken into custody in Omaha.

Another cache of about $10,000 was found by a road crew shortly after the robbery.

... AS JURORS FOR RUBY

Dallas (AP) — Jack Ruby's lawyers Tuesday lost a sweeping move to bar from his murder jury anyone who watched on television when he shot Lee Harvey Oswald. However, the first four prospective jurors were excused from the case anyway.

Twice the state accepted candidates as jurors. This forced the defense to use peremptory challenges to bar them, without giving any reasons.

The other two prospects were excused by the court—one because he had reservations about the death penalty demanded by the state, the other because she had formed an opinion on the case.

Opinion

The one with the opinion was Mrs. Sherry Lundberg, 22, a winsome brunette bride of six months. Her dismissal was followed by an overnight adjournment of the trial.

In a fierce exchange of argument, the defense tried to force off the panel the first two jury candidates, Hilliard Stone, 35, an articulate technical illustrator for an aerospace plant, and Mrs. C. C. Cherry, a 58-year-old brunette housewife.

Both testified that they, with thousands of Dallas residents and television viewers across the nation, watched last Nov. 24 as Ruby stepped from a crowd at Dallas police headquarters and gunned down Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Refused

Judge Joe B. Brown refused to accept this as a reason for dismissing them. The defense had hoped to further its claim that the 52-year-old Ruby cannot get a fair trial in Dallas.

The shooting was the first murder ever seen "live" on television.

Exercised Two

Finally, the defense exercised two of its 15 peremptory challenges to get rid of Stone and Mrs. Cherry. Defense attorneys have called these challenges worth their weight in gold—once they are used up Ruby's lawyers no longer can block jury candidates without a valid reason. There is no limit on the number of challenges for cause, but the judge rules on whether the cause is established.

The day's other jury prospect, J. E. Saunders, 53, a tall advertising specialty salesman, was the man with reservations against capital punishment, which the state has demanded for Ruby. Judge Brown dismissed him after only a few questions.

The television question arose with Stone, the first prospective juror to be called in the case.

"Seeing the reconstruction on television is just the same as being there," declared defense attorney Melvin Belli. He argued that as a witness to the crime Stone should be disqualified as a juror. However, the state contended that "a witness to a death is not disqualified under Texas law."

Judge Brown swung around in his high leather-backed chair and demanded of Stone, in regard to what he saw on television:

"Can you put that out of your mind and enter the jury box with a free and open mind?"

Slight Furrow

"I think I could," replied Stone, with a slight vertical furrow of his brow.

Brown allowed him to continue as a prospective juror.

Stone took the witness chair at the outset of the trial's second day. He was the first of a batch of 135 prospective jurors to be called.

Temperments Short

Questioning started off quietly enough but as the hours wore on temperments grew short, objections grew heated and finally Asst. Dist. Atty. A. D. Jim Bowie cried in an anguished voice of Belli:

"He has defied every court ruling for the last hour and a half."

Judge Brown repeatedly tried to cool things down and finally declared:

"Let's don't let this thing get out of hand gentlemen... somebody's going to have to run this court and that's going to be me. Let's have no trouble."

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade opened the examination of Stone and lost no time putting the state's cards on the table, bluntly. He told Stone at the outset of a terse 13 minutes of examination:

"We will ask you and the other jurors for a verdict of death."

Grave One

Stone assured the prosecutor that he considered the death penalty a grave one, but that "if I felt circumstances warranted the death penalty, I would vote for it."

Wade pointed out that it also will be within the power of the jury to convict Ruby but recommended that he be turned loose under a suspended minimum sentence of two years.

The defense is pleading temporary insanity. Wade told Stone it is up to the defense to prove this, just as it is up to the state to prove guilt.

Presumption

"Jack Ruby has a presumption that he is sane as he sits there now," added Wade, a solidly built, ruggedly handsome gray-haired man of 50.

Belli, a famous courtroom performer, gestured occasionally with his hands as he started off to elicit Stone's reaction to what he saw on television and read in newspapers about Oswald's slaying.

Front Pages

Belli tried to introduce two front pages of the two Dallas daily newspapers and that brought Bowie to his feet with the first of what was to become a torrent of objections. Judge Brown refused to allow Stone to see the newspapers.

Belli declared at one point that the defense will not even concede that Ruby shot Oswald, despite the many witnesses to the slaying.

COMFORT IN PAIN

Her hands comfortably held, the pained face of Naomi Burinick is framed by the legs of one of her rescuers as they try to remove her from the wreckage of her car which was squashed when a big truck overturned on it Tuesday in Minneapolis, Minn. The 16-year-old was pinned in the wreckage for 2½ hours and is now in critical condition. Mary Doyle, 16, also in the car with Miss Burinick, escaped through a door. She was not hospitalized.

Soviets Reject West's Arms Proposals

Geneva (AP) — The Soviet Union told the 17-nation disarmament conference Tuesday that there is no compromise of the Soviet stand on world disarmament. It rejected Western proposals for phased, gradual disarmament, calling them unrealistic.

In a speech, described by Western officials as his most uncompromising since the talks resumed Jan. 21, chief Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin accused the West of putting national interests before disarmament and holding out little hope for progress at Geneva.

In spite of the apparently hopeless deadlock on general and complete disarmament, the two sides still are negotiating side measures in an attempt to reduce world tension and lessen the risk of war.

Out of such negotiations previously came the nuclear test ban treaty and the Moscow-Washington hot line agreement.

But Tsarapkin's speech ap-

Military Insurgents Take Over Gabon

Libreville, Gabon (AP) — A revolutionary military committee seized power in Gabon in a bloodless coup Tuesday, arrested President Leon M'ba and forced him to resign.

Soldiers from Gabon's 450-man army, supported by gendarmes and police, occupied strategic points in Libreville during the night. They seized the presidential palace, radio station and post office.

Not a shot was fired and life in the capital went on normally Tuesday. Statements were read every half hour over the radio calling on residents of Libreville to remain calm and promising that "public liberties will be restored and all political prisoners will be freed."

Airport Closed

The airport was closed and communications were cut in the early stages of the coup, but messages started filtering out during the evening.

Under arrest with the 62-year-old president were his ministers and the president of the national assembly. Only about a month ago, the army had pledged its loyalty to the president.

A spokesman for the revolutionary committee said the coup was designed "to avoid bloody troubles that might be provoked by the opposition" but he did not elaborate. He said Gabon's foreign policy, which has been pro-French in this former French colony, would be unchanged.

No holdovers. The spokesman, Sub-Lt. Daniel Mbene, said the committee was working to set up a provisional government that would not include any holdovers from M'ba's cabinet. He said Lt. Jacques Monbo,

LEON M'BA

Americans Safe

In Washington, all Americans living in Gabon were reported safe.

State Department Press Officer Richard I. Phillips said the Americans total about 150, including 30 attached to the U.S. Embassy and their dependents, 79 Peace Corps volunteers, 25 missionaries and their dependents and 15 engineers. American officials said there was no indication of Communist incitement in preparation of the uprising.

The coup came in a tropical former French West African colony of 103,000 square miles, mostly covered by dense rain forest, where Dr. Albert Schweitzer has operated a jungle hospital for a half century.

U.S. Still Plans To Leave In '65

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says the war in South Viet Nam "can only be won by the Vietnamese themselves" and the United States will pull out most troops by 1965 even if the anti-Communist drive falters there.

McNamara told Congress that the Johnson administration has no intention of seeing another Korea—with hundreds of thousands of U.S. troops pouring into Viet Nam. At the moment, McNamara says he foresees a small percentage of Americans staying on as advisers after the bulk of U.S. troops leave.

McNamara's views were presented two weeks ago in secret testimony before the House Armed Services Committee. A censored transcript was released Tuesday.

In large part, McNamara was repeating a policy stated by him and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, last Oct. 2 after they toured South Viet Nam.

At the committee session Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., asked:

"Isn't this a little unrealistic... when you first made the announcement things were going quite a bit better... wouldn't you say that in the event that things do not go as well as you hope... we can't... withdraw any more of our forces?"

"No, sir, I would not," McNamara replied. "I don't believe that we as a nation should assume the primary responsibility for the war in South Viet Nam. It is a counter-guerrilla war. It is a war that can only be won by the Vietnamese themselves. Our responsibility is not to substitute ourselves for the Vietnamese, but to train them to carry on the operations that they themselves are capable of."

U.S. Saigon Schools Like 'Camps'

Saigon (AP) — A big U.S. school resembled an armed camp Tuesday in Saigon, where terrorist bombs have killed or maimed nearly 100 Americans in the past three weeks.

U.S. guards rode the buses that took the children to school, attended by about 650 dependents of both civilian and military personnel.

About 30 grim faced, helmeted U.S. guards carrying automatic rifles stood on nearby rooftops, actually training their rifles on some Vietnamese in the area.

U.S. military police pulled a Vietnamese taxi driver from his cab after the driver failed to stop quickly. The driver was handed over to Vietnamese police, who roughed him up.

An American MP also stopped and searched other Vietnamese carrying packages. The entire street in front of the school, a main road to Saigon airport, is being blocked about two hours each day to all traffic while American children arrive and depart.

Extra guards were in position at almost all U.S. installations in Saigon.

"I'd feel happier if they weren't carrying automatic rifles," one American official said. "Those guns can kill an awful lot of people with just one burst in a downtown area."

Search continued for the terrorists, believed to be sent in from the countryside by Communist guerrillas to kill Americans.

He claimed that the United States will have more than 1,000 intercontinental rockets by mid 1965. A 30% reduction in the first stage of disarmament, as proposed by the West, still would leave America with about 800 rockets.

"What kind of disarmament is this?" he asked. "There can be no compromise in the desire for complete disarmament and the end of the threat of thermonuclear war."

$248 Million Garrison Bill Okayed By Senate

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Tuesday passed by a voice vote and sent to the House a bill to authorize construction of the 250,000-acre, $248 million Garrison diversion unit project for North and South Dakota.

The project, almost wholly in North Dakota, is intended to help repay the state for the 544,000 acres of rich farmland flooded by Missouri River Basin reservoirs.

A House Interior Subcommittee has scheduled hearings for Thursday and Friday on companion legislation.

Rurals Ready To Appeal Request

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Rural power districts are ready to take their request to use the Nebraska Public Power System transmission system to the Nebraska Power Review Board, Ralph Foreman of Columbus said Tuesday.

Beyond the PRB lies possible court action, he indicated. Foreman is manager of the Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative, Inc., an organization composed of 23 rural districts.

"We intend to use the lines," Foreman declared.

"If NPPS does not give us a wheeling contract similar to that held by Consumers Public Power District, I would recommend we take the issue to the Power Review Board, and let it decide."

Outside Court

"In order not to violate the intent of LB220, we would want to try to settle the issue outside of court, if possible."

The 23-member cooperative has announced its intent to seek future power supply requirements beyond its current contractual commitment from a source other than NPPS.

If rural districts purchase power elsewhere, they want to be able to pay for use of the NPPS grid transmission system to carry the power to its destination.

CPPD currently uses the system for this purpose, but NPPS officials have said that rural districts do not have the right to do so.

NPPS has even offered the opportunity to municipal utilities, Foreman said.

Yet, rural districts — through Rural Electrification Administration loans — have provided 46% of the financing for the transmission system and a total of $45 million for all NPPS facilities, Foreman said.

Refused

Later, in an address to the Nebraska Rural Electric Association convention, Foreman said NPPS has "refused to accept its responsibility" to its customers.

That is the reason the rural members of the cooperative have decided to seek future additional power supply from a source other than NPPS, he said.

Rural customers are dissatisfied over rate issues, the NPPS feasibility formula for new facilities, unilateral actions by one NPPS partner, lack of control by customers and "disregard" for the current operating agreement, Foreman declared.

The NPPS report which stated that equity for rural customers will occur in 1966 was "most puzzling," he said, "because equity will, without doubt, occur in 1965."

Rurals hope to obtain their "first block of power over equity" from the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, "then go from there," Foreman said.

However, he pointed out, the G & T is "ready and willing" to continue negotiations with NPPS for power supply beyond equity as requested by the Power Review Board.

Unionists Claim Jobless Benefits Sabotaged

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP)—The AFL-CIO Executive Council accused state legislatures and "aspiring presidential candidates" Tuesday of sabotaging unemployment benefits under pressure from employers.

The policy-making council of the giant labor federation singled out Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania for special criticism, and called on Congress to establish a federal minimum for jobless payments.

"Gov. Scranton of Pennsylvania has now proposed that benefits be discontinued for over 90,000 unemployed persons," the council said in a statement.

"Instead of attacking unemployment, he attacks the unemployed," the council charged.

AFL-CIO president George Meany said the reference to "aspiring presidential candidates" referred to Scranton. "We think he is so important we put it in the plural," Meany said.

He mentioned no other names of presidential hopefuls.

The council said states are increasingly sacrificing unemployment insurance in order to attract industry.

"This vicious cycle, aggravated by interstate competition, has prevented the system from fulfilling either its social objective of alleviating the distress of unemployment or its economic objective of maintaining purchasing power," the council said.

"In the face of this threatened breakdown of the system, Congress has done nothing. State legislatures, under heavy pressure from employers, continue to undermine benefits. Twelve state legislatures cut back one or another part of the benefit structure in their state laws last year," the council added.

Meany said the AFL-CIO, which has 13.5 million members in its affiliated unions, will do everything possible to help Pennsylvania labor leaders fight any cut in jobless benefits.

"The AFL-CIO is greatly alarmed at the continuing attacks on unemployment insurance," the council said.

"The attacks, from state legislatures, national magazines and aspiring presidential candidates, threaten the performance of the program as a method of preventing poverty."

The council urged Congress "to heed the storm warnings of the last two years and enact the administrative proposal for modernizing jobless pay in this session."

to irrigation, with $25,546,000 of that sum to be repaid by irrigators and conservancy districts, and $165,586,000 by power users.

According to the Interior Department, $11,285,000 of the total cost is allocated to municipal and industrial water supplies, $37,000 to power, and $2,813,000 to flood control.

The $30,845,000 for fish and wildlife, and $12,122,000 for recreation are non-repayable expenses of the project, according to the breakdown.

The department has estimated the multi-million dollar project will return $2.50 in benefits for each $1 of cost.

Judge Orders New Vote On Rail Merger

Chicago (AP)—A federal judge ordered Tuesday a new vote among stockholders of the Rock Island Railroad on merger with the Union Pacific Railroad.

Judge Julius Hoffman of U.S. District Court also ordered a new solicitation of proxies and banned any meeting of stockholders for the purpose of approving any merger within the next 60 days.

The ruling applies to the Rock Island lines, the Chicago and North Western Railway and the Union Pacific.

The court also enjoined the North Western from soliciting proxies or seeking to persuade Rock Island stockholders to vote against approval of the proposed merger by means of any communication not filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The court, in a 21-page opinion, severely criticized the North Western for actions it took in its attempt to defeat the proposed Rock Island-Union Pacific merger.

Rock Island shareholders were to have voted Nov. 15, 1963, in a special meeting on the merger with the Union Pacific which has been approved by directors of both railroads.

Democrat Burton Wins Congress Seat In California

San Francisco (AP)—Liberal State Assemblyman Phillip Burton, a Democrat, won election Tuesday night to the 5th California congressional district seat vacated by John Shelley.

Burton had 26,269 votes to little more than 23,000 for his seven opponents. This gave him a clear majority of the total votes cast and obviated a runoff with the highest Republican.

Burton, who championed demonstrating University of California students five years ago against the House Committee of Un-American Activities, had the support of Gov. Edmund G. Brown. But he was opposed by Shelley, who resigned from Congress to run for mayor of San Francisco.

Summary of Conditions

Deep low pressure over central Alberta is expected to move southeast to Winnipeg, Canada by Wednesday morning and to about northern Minnesota by Wednesday night. As it moves southward it will block the southward flow of cold Canadian air into the central plains. However, as it moves eastward some cooler Pacific air will move eastward into the central plains. High pressure is expected to build southeastward over Texas from the parent high over the western plateau. This means that any gulf moisture will be blocked from the Nebraska-Iowa region for at least another 24 hours. A large broad trough will extend eastwards across the northern plains from the Rockies to the western Great Lakes region.

This means that it will be generally partly cloudy Wednesday with increasing cloudiness Wednesday night as a weak Pacific front in advance of the Pacific air moves into the central plains. No precipitation and little temperature change is expected for our area Wednesday.

A Place For Everyone

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

While everyone may not be in it, there is a place in this world for everyone. That some of them never find their places can be attributed to a multitude of things, some over which they might have no control and others over which they could but failed to exercise control. By the "place" of the individual, we do not mean to imply approval of any kind of caste system or any theory of predestination.

What is meant is that there is opportunity for all people and that the vast majority are born with the capacity for at least minimum success. Not all of us, of course, will ever find ourselves in the position of a West Coast resident who purchased two paintings from a New York art dealer. The Westerner selected the paintings he wanted from what he knew was an expensive collection. The man, an industrialist, asked that the paintings be shipped to his home. As he departed, he was reminded by the dealer that the price of the paintings had not been discussed.

The industrialist replied that he knew the dealer always did his best for his customers and that was enough for him. The price would be known, he said, when the bill was sent. The bill, sure enough, was sent and it amounted to the tidy sum of $530,000. Most of us will never see the day when we can be so casual with such large sums of money. In fact, most of us will never even see such a large sum, much less treat it so casually.

But it is possible that, in some respects, we could find ourselves in the position of the dealer. Not necessarily in the matter of money might we so find ourselves in that position, as the dealer, it turns out, is a man of quite some wealth himself. His own personal art collection is said to be valued in the millions of dollars.

It is undoubtedly because of his own wealth that he is of the nature he is reported to be by the New York Times. It is this nature of the man that could profitably be common to many of us. The man is Sam Salz who was featured in a story recently in The Times. Mr. Salz sees customers only by appointment, does not advertise and considers the artistic side of things as important as the commercial side. Of his art treasures, his own and those he sells, he says: "For me, this is a religious thing. This is not merchandise. Sure, I handle pictures worth millions. But I never buy for anybody. I buy for myself. If I like it, I buy it. I don't sell to people just because they have money. My pictures have to have a home."

Not every businessman, of course, can afford the luxury of picking out his customers. When you get right down to it, most people believe that that which they create is often devalued in the hands into which it falls through the common market. The creative person would much prefer, if he could only afford it, to have his creations in the hands of those who fully understood and appreciated that which had been created. At least, the creative person would prefer that he be permitted to limit himself to the satisfaction of only his own instincts and feelings but such is the privilege of only a very few. For the vast majority, there is a minimum level of compatibility with which they must comply.

But Mr. Salz has something else of value that is readily available to all of us. Concluding his interview with the Times writer, Mr. Salz smiled and said: "You know, my dream was to be a painter. But I was a bad painter." The fact that he could not himself become a painter did not discourage this New York collector.

Since he could not himself paint successfully, he did the next best thing—he became a collector of the works of others. Thus, he still found a satisfaction for the creativity that was within him and a satisfaction of the artistic thirst with which he must have been born.

In that which comes the way of all of us from time to time, we can apply some of this philosophy. We may not be practicing politicians but we can appreciate good government and make a positive contribution toward this end by being an informed citizen. We may not be able to write music or perhaps to understand much of it, even, but this in no way need interfere with our enjoyment of it. One need not be an expert at anything to find enjoyment and happiness at almost every turn in life. Much the same thing can be said of one's career.

You may or may not be in a position of high responsibility in your work but you can still find satisfaction in whatever contribution you are making. Mr. Salz does not paint, which he would like to do, but he has made his dealership a rewarding substitute. Your work may not be unique or original but you should consider the fact that your contribution to the whole helps provide the finish that permits perfection.

British Military Weak In Cyprus

WASHINGTON—British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas Home talked very frankly to President Johnson about the weak strength of British troops on Cyprus and warned that Britain could only send 2,000 additional troops to that strife-torn island.

This was one reason why Undersecretary George Ball rushed off to the Mediterranean to head off war.

Home explained to Johnson and to others in Washington that there are now between 5,000 and 6,000 British troops on Cyprus and that the additional battalion would not be able to prevent civil war. In fact the prime minister's aides confided that in case of civil war, British troops would be pulled into their compounds away from any fighting and would let the Greeks and Turks kill each other off.

"We have no pleasure in remaining in Cyprus to be shot down by both sides," the prime minister remarked during his stay in Washington. The extra battalion, he explained, would mean moving 2,000 troops from one side of NATO in Germany, to the other side in the Mediterranean, therefore would not be welcome on Britain's NATO commitment.

Note—The Greeks mean while had warned the United States and Britain in no uncertain terms that if the Turks sent troops to Cyprus, as they have a right under the treaty to protect their nationals, Greece would consider it an act of war. This meant that Greece would probably invade European Turkey through Thrace.

What bothered the Johnson administration about Prime Minister Home's determination to sell buses plus factories to Cuba, was that his announcement came on the same day the Organization of American States had officially found Cuba guilty of invading democratic Venezuela.

Thus a great pillar of democracy, England, put itself in the position of supporting a dictatorship which had tried to overthrow another democracy by violence and sabotage.

The United States had finally persuaded Canada to cut off its shipments of auto, truck and bus parts to bolster Castro's decrepit transportation system, which depends chiefly on old worn out American automobile products. The sale of British buses, plus the proposed sale of French trucks, will not only rescue Castro but will mean that Cuba is lost to the American auto industry for years to come.

Kennedy Clan Faces Decision

WASHINGTON — The Democratic nomination for President is taken this year, but by universal consent the Democratic nomination for vice president, which is wide open, is a mighty fine job, too. A host of Democrats are reaching for it, and practically every American of legal age would accept the offer if made.

President Johnson already enjoys his dominant role in the situation and has twitted the hopeful aspirants whose friends have discussed their manifest willingness to serve. Nor has the President been above the appearance of pitting one against the other.

About all the aspirants can do for themselves is to develop pressures within the party for their nomination. This accounts for the California travels this week of both senators from Minnesota, Hubert Humphrey and Eugene McCarthy. They are even displaying their talents before those unblinded judges, the California Democratic clubs, a chancey forum President Johnson is widely shunning, though he, too, will be in the neighborhood.

The most determined power play is taking place behind the scenes, and there is little that the President or party leaders can do to shape the outcome. It is the decision which the clan Kennedy is making about its political future.

It has always acted as one, a strategy which paid off in 1960. No doubt it would prefer to do so in the future, but its power to command events has been greatly diminished. Assassination has robbed it of its most attractive public figure, the late President, and illness has struck down the shrewd and daring patriarch who never counted the cost of any project he thought desirable.

What is left of John F. Kennedy's power lies in the realm of emotion. Many of his former aides and supporters will feel a personal loyalty to him, but what might be called its element of transferability to other Kennedys is subject to the attrition of time. That attrition rarely displays itself more brutally and quickly than it does in politics.

Joseph P. Kennedy, who in his long and successful career, financial and political, occupied the front seats of power, can no longer advise his family in the same way. The children have got to make it as best they can with the help of their mother, who has been trained in politics since childhood.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy will stay on here until after the election at least. Sargent Shriver, head of the Peace Corps, has been put by President Johnson in charge of the new war on poverty.

In a political sense, this makes Kennedy and Shriver rivals for the vice presidency, and the President has so been told, though he disclaims the intention of creating the situation. What the attorney general and the Shriver think, they have not revealed.

Mrs. Shriver was very close to her brother, the President, and seems in many ways to have her father's tough mind and managerial talent. Probably much depends on what she thinks.

Some old family friends believe Sen. Edward Kennedy has the best political sense of them all, but he is constitutionally ineligible to be President, being only 32, apart from other considerations.

WORDS THAT GUIDE ME

Blessed are the merciful for they shall obtain mercy.

Matthew 5:7 Challoner Rheims Version

By Richard Cardinal Cushing Archbishop of Boston

There are seven works of spiritual mercy and seven works of corporal mercy. These works of mercy must be accompanied by three conditions to render them perfect and acceptable to God.

I must extend them to all without exception, even to my enemies. I must take advantage of every occasion of doing good, in every type of distress, and exert myself to the utmost of my ability. I must accompany them with interior motives and interior devotion. A good intention can sanctify an action which might otherwise be only good.

Christ is the perfect example of this beatitude. He addressed all mankind when in His mercy He said, "Come to me, all you who labor and are burdened and I will give you rest." He took advantage of every occasion for doing good. He taught daily in the temple. He went about doing good and healing all who appealed to Him. He performed these works of mercy with the most tender affection, for He acted like the good Samaritan, who bound up the wounds of him who fell among robbers. Therefore, I must go and do also in like manner.

The reward attached to works of mercy is great. If I perform them I shall obtain mercy. This mercy will accompany me in this life. It will extend to both body and soul. It will be my reward in the next life — with what measure I measure, it shall be measured to me. I stand in need of God's mercy, and miserable would I be if God dealt with me according to my deserts.

I must be merciful to others that I may obtain mercy. "Judgment is without mercy," writes St. James, "to him who has not shown mercy."

Richard Cardinal Cushing has a keen appreciation of the spiritual needs not only of his flock that numbers more than 1,500,000 but of the entire world.

When Pope Pius XII named him Archbishop in 1944, Cushing was then the youngest man of that rank in the Roman Catholic hierarchy. He immediately launched a greatly-needed renovation and construction program in his archdiocese.

The Cardinal's magnificent power of oratory has been coupled with clear, direct, and powerful pronouncements that cover a wide range of subjects, from pastoral matters to his views on the "problems of society." He has written cogently on the personal relationships of Roman Catholics with others in a pluralistic society, the breakdown of moral behavior, and the growing ecumenical spirit of "Catholics, Protestants and others."

Nowhere is his powerful leadership more apparent than from the pulpit and the rostrum. He appears frequently on local and national network television. The Cardinal's day begins at 6 a.m.; he keeps two corps of secretaries busy from 8 a.m. until after 10 p.m.

When the Archbishop received his "red hat" in 1950 (on being declared a Cardinal by Pope John XXIII), he was already recognized in the United States as one of the nation's pre-eminent religious leaders.

The affection that people hold for him everywhere is perhaps summed up best by a rabbi who lives near the Cardinal. The rabbi said Cushing was "a revered prince of the church who has gained love and respect of myriads of fellow citizens of every religious denomination and racial ancestry. Our community is blessed by his presence."

Still Puffing

Lincoln, Neb.

I was interested in reading the letter in the February 14 Star entitled "Will Power" and signed by "Non-Smoker." The letter took issue with Nancy Ray, who wrote a series of humorous articles on the trials and tribulations of the confirmed smoker.

The non-smoker stated: "Smoking is one of the filthiest habits anyone can have. It smells up clothes, hands and breath, keeps the smoker from attending the PTA, church and other gatherings because he has to have that puff." "Non-smoker" also states he or she "has not smoked for 40 years and has never tasted tobacco."

I find it hard to believe that "Non-Smoker" has no bad habits that are not offensive to others. There surely is no person in this world who hasn't one bad habit.

I think if "Non-Smoker" attends church on Sunday, there will be someone there, and surely some children must take an interest in school, or there would be no scholarships or universities.

I enjoyed the articles by Nancy Ray. May we have more touches of humor and less hogwash by "Non-Smoker." In the meantime, I intend to keep puffing.

Paradise Lost

Lincoln, Neb.

One of the sensations of recent days has been Comrade Nosenko, who asked for and received U.S. asylum rights. He was a pretty big "pike" on the Russian disarmament team in the Geneva talks headed by Mr. Tsarapkin. His facial grimaces when he was speaking may be remembered.

In Russian, "tsarapaty" means "to scrap." Now Mr. Tsarapkin is very excited because Nosenko has the Russian secrets and the Russian team leader now, "scraps" little Switzerland as well as our country. Why? Nosenko left behind him the "paradise."

Advertising

Anselmo, Neb.

Must we continue to advertise cigarettes? When we know something is dangerous, should we be allowed to picture it as something glorious and picture it to our children as the proper way?

Alcohol is another danger, both to body and mind. We find half our traffic accidents and deaths are caused by liquor and more homes are broken up by liquor than anything else. Must we advertise and picture it as the way to be happy? The Bible tells us that wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise. Also that no drunkard shall enter heaven.

More than half our population are church people. Do they approve of this advertising? We are told that the love of money is the root of all evil. Do we love money more than life? People who use liquor or tobacco could keep on, but why must we try to induce our children to get the habit?

M. S. DAILY

Hate Groups

Lincoln, Neb.

How "red" are the hate groups?

It is the purpose of a fifth column to create confusion, distrust and internal conflict. They have done this quite effectively by accusing Kennedy, Eisenhower and Warren of being traitors, and have managed to make "patriot" and "conservative" the equivalent of "crazy" much to the detriment of such reputable organizations as the Republican party, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and others.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

During the recent A.I.C., more than 3,000 people recognized that Nebraska news media value the importance of agriculture. Likewise, they recognized that our news media believe in cooperatives. I still receive many comments on this when attending meetings in other states.

Glenn Kreuscher has again proved this by the excellent, complete news coverage given to our recent annual meeting. We certainly believe in the importance of cooperatives in our agricultural economy and we very much appreciate The Star's publicity.

State Pensions

Lincoln, Neb.

The Lincoln Star has brought up an interesting subject regarding pension funds. The public can wonder how the Legislature can pass a constitutional bill to supply money to start a pension fund for any state employee or to pass a legal bill to supply money to match that which the employee pays in from tax dollars.

A pension is extra compensation after services have been rendered. Article III, Section 19 states very clearly that the Legislature shall never grant any extra compensation to any public officer, agent or servant after service has been rendered.

The University of Nebraska is now collecting from the average worker between $8 and $12 per month and the University matches this from tax dollars, of course, as it is a tax-supported part of Nebraska.

If it is the claim of the Legislature that they can pass a constitutional bill for the pensioning of state employees, then it would seem they could set up pensions for everyone.

The public can certainly question the wisdom of the research department of the Legislature, because in the last session they were wrong as many times as they were right. In fact, the public can wonder if the Legislature has a research department.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

Warning To Colorado

Nebraska's Mel Steen shook Colorado's recreation leaders at their annual conference last week at Denver.

He warned the Coloradans that Nebraska and other neighboring states are going after the recreation business in a meaningful way. Nebraska has earmarked $25 million for recreation development over the next 10 years.

"Nature has been kind to you, giving you mountains, beautiful scenery, cool summers and a variety of recreational activities. But you are spending only $400,000 a year to build up accommodations and advertise them. You are apt to lose hundreds of millions over the next few years unless you adopt an adequate development program," he warned.

The Denver Post was duly impressed and repeated the warning.

It may seem odd that ambitious Nebraska would encourage a prime competitor, Colorado, to try harder. But it isn't.

It is hard for any one state to change the direction of the flow of recreation. It is more easily done if several neighboring states join in the effort. It is not wise for Nebraska to attempt to snatch a dollar on its way to Colorado. It is more wise for Nebraska and Colorado to cooperate in order to divert five new dollars this way. Then there is more than ever to go around.

Nebraska will never compete with Colorado's mountains because it hasn't any. But it has the plainsman beauty, an abundance of recreation water and provocative historical places. All these add up to a long list of varied enjoyments, certainly interesting enough to warrant Colorado and Nebraska working shoulder to shoulder to swing the vacationers in this direction.

Err On Side Of Plenty

City Councilman Lloyd Hinkley is correct in his admonition that city government should not underestimate the future growth of Lincoln. He noted that this has been done in the past and that it is possible to do in regard to the future development of the Stevens Creek watershed.

What it means is that Lincoln should not let its public expenditures program lag so badly that it finds itself in a hole in the years ahead from which it cannot climb. It means that this current generation of people has an obligation to provide for the future at least an even balance as between public facilities provided and demanded.

Thus, we should not so delay the construction of new streets, sewers and water lines to the point where the city 20 years from now faces a tremendous backlog of demands. In order to save money today, we should not pass on to others the problems of community growth that we simply might refuse to handle.

The issue is appropriate in regard to Stevens Creek because the development of this region to the east of Lincoln's present city limits will have an effect on future traffic patterns and utility needs. When the city needs to grow into Stevens Creek—and this is not far away if it is not already present—the city government will be remiss if it holds up this growth because it refuses to spend money for it.

Lincoln has to recognize that it will always be called upon to invest in its future. It cannot rely on outside forces simply fighting their way into our midst and battling for the chance to improve our economic situation. What we have in the future will depend upon what we make for ourselves as a result of our willingness to sacrifice.

A Good Choice

It was by the happiest of circumstances that President Lyndon B. Johnson was prompted to name Stan Musial as successor to Bud Wilkinson as head of the national physical fitness program.

We are sure that professional baseball has not produced a more admirable figure nor better player than Stan. His retirement as an active player for 25 years for the St. Louis Cardinals took place at the close of the 1963 season, just at the right time for the purpose of the physical fitness program.

Leo Durocher once asserted that it was all right to be a nice guy, but nice guys seldom win. Musial is the exception and how nice a nice guy he was is best told by recalling that it was the Brooklyn Dodger fans who gave him the affectionate nickname of "Stan the Man." And that was back in the days when those fans wouldn't say that much for one of their own players.

The fitness program continues to be fortunate. Bud Wilkinson was admired by many Americans as a great coach and a high charactered man. Musial will carry the responsibility as well.

Youth is led more by example than precept. Any well meant person can urge a youngster to aspire to good things. But this man who played the professional game for 25 years, amassed a book full of records and never once conducted himself with taint is a prime example. The young people will not miss the point.

Certainly Musial has earned a rest. But we hope it will be a long while yet before he decides to take one. He is too valuable to American youth.

A Place For Everyone

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

While everyone may not be in it, there is a place in this world for everyone. That some of them never find their place can be attributed to a multitude of things, some over which they might have no control and others over which they could but failed to exercise control. By the "place" of the individual, we do not mean to imply approval of any kind of caste system or any theory of predestination.

What is meant is that there is opportunity for all people and that the vast majority are born with the capacity for at least minimum success. Not all of us, of course, will ever find ourselves in the position of a West Coast resident who purchased two paintings from a New York art dealer. The Westerner selected the paintings he wanted from what he knew was an expensive collection. The man, an industrialist, asked that the paintings be shipped to his home. As he departed, he was reminded by the dealer that the price of the paintings had not been discussed.

The industrialist replied that he knew the dealer always did his best for his customers and that was enough for him. The price would be known, he said, when the bill was sent. The bill, sure enough, was sent and it amounted to the tidy sum of $530,000. Most of us will never see the day when we can be so casual with such large sums of money. In fact, most of us will never even see such a large sum, much less treat it so casually.

But it is possible that, in some respects, we could find ourselves in the position of the dealer. Not necessarily in the matter of money might we so find ourselves in that position, as the dealer, it turns out, is a man of quite some wealth himself. His own personal art collection is said to be valued in the millions of dollars.

It is undoubtedly because of his own wealth that he is of the nature he is reported to be by the New York Times. It is this nature of the man that could profitably be common to many of us. The man is Sam Salz who was featured in a story recently in The Times. Mr. Salz sees customers only by appointment, does not advertise and considers the artistic side of things as important as the commercial side. Of his art treasures, his own and those he sells, he says: "For me, this is a religious thing. This is not merchandise. Sure, I handle pictures worth millions. But I never buy for anybody. I buy for myself. If I like it, I buy it. I don't sell to people just because they have money. My pictures have to have a home."

Not every businessman, of course, can afford the luxury of picking out his customers. When you get right down to it, most people believe that that which they create is often desecrated in the hands into which it falls through the common market. The creative person would much prefer, if he could only afford it, to have his creations in the hands of those who fully understood and appreciated that which had been created. At least, the creative person would prefer that he be permitted to limit himself to the satisfaction of only his own instincts and feelings but such is the privilege of only a very few. For the vast majority, there is a minimum level of compatibility with which they must comply.

But Mr. Salz has something else of value that is readily available to all of us. Concluding his interview with the Times writer, Mr. Salz smiled and said: "You know, my dream was to be a painter. But I was a bad painter." The fact that he could not himself become a painter did not discourage this New York collector.

Since he could not himself paint successfully, he did the next best thing—he became a collector of the works of others. Thus, he still found a satisfaction for the creativity that was within him and a satisfaction of the artistic thirst with which he must have been born.

In that which comes the way of all of us from time to time, we can apply some of this philosophy. We may not be practicing politicians but we can appreciate good government and make a positive contribution toward this end by being an informed citizen. We may not be able to write music or perhaps to understand much of it, even, but this in no way need interfere with our enjoyment of it. One need not be an expert at anything to find enjoyment and happiness at almost every turn in life. Much the same thing can be said of one's career.

You may or may not be in a position of high responsibility in your work but you can still find satisfaction in whatever contribution you are making. Mr. Salz does not paint, which he would like to do, but he has made his dealership a rewarding substitute. Your work may not be unique or original but you should consider the fact that your contribution to the whole helps provide the finish that permits perfection.

British Military Weak In Cyprus

WASHINGTON—British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas Home talked very frankly to President Johnson about the weak strength of British troops on Cyprus and warned that Britain could only send 2,000 additional troops to that strife-torn island.

This was one reason why Undersecretary George Ball rushed off to the Mediterranean to head off war.

Home explained to Johnson and to others in Washington that there are now between 5,000 and 6,000 British troops on Cyprus and that the additional battalion would not be able to prevent civil war. In fact the prime minister's aides confided that in case of civil war, British troops would be pulled into their compounds away from any fighting and would let the Greeks and Turks kill each other off.

"We have no pleasure in remaining in Cyprus to be shot down by both sides," the prime minister remarked during his stay in Washington. The extra battalion, he explained, would mean moving 2,000 troops from one side of NATO in Germany, to the other side in the Mediterranean, therefore would not be welcome on Britain's NATO commitment.

Note—The Greeks meanwhile had warned the United States and Britain in no uncertain terms that if the Turks sent troops to Cyprus, as they have a right under the treaty to protect their nationals, Greece would consider it an act of war. This meant that Greece would probably invade European Turkey through Thrace.

What bothered the Johnson administration about Prime Minister Home's determination to sell buses plus factories to Cuba, was that his announcement came on the same day the Organization of American States had officially found Cuba guilty of invading democratic Venezuela.

Thus a great pillar of democracy, England, put itself in the position of supporting a dictatorship which had tried to overthrow another democracy by violence and sabotage.

The United States had finally persuaded Canada to cut off its shipments of auto, truck and bus parts to bolster Castro's decrepit transportation system, which depends chiefly on old worn out American automobile products. The sale of British buses, plus the proposed sale of French trucks, will not only rescue Castro but will mean that Cuba is lost to the American auto industry for years to come.

Kennedy Clan Faces Decision

WASHINGTON — The Democratic nomination for President is taken this year, but by universal consent the Democratic nomination for vice president, which is wide open, is a mighty fine job, too. A host of Democrats are reaching for it, and practically every American of legal age would accept the offer if made.

President Johnson already enjoys his dominant role in the situation and has twitted the hopeful aspirants whose friends have discussed their manifest willingness to serve. Nor has the President been above the appearance of pitting one against the other.

About all the aspirants can do for themselves is to develop pressures within the party for their nomination. This accounts for the California travels this week of both senators from Minnesota, Hubert Humphrey and Eugene McCarthy. They are even displaying their talents before those uninhibited judges, the California Democratic clubs, a chancey forum President Johnson is widely shunning, though he, too, will be in the neighborhood.

The most determined power play is taking place behind the scenes, and there is little that the President or party leaders can do to shape the outcome. It is the decision which the clan Kennedy is making about its political future.

It has always acted as one, a strategy which paid off in 1960. No doubt it would prefer to do so in the future, but its power to command events has been greatly diminished.

Assassination has robbed it of its most attractive public figure, the late President, and illness has struck down the shrewd and daring patriarch who never counted the cost of any project he thought desirable.

What is left of John F. Kennedy's power lies in the realm of emotion. Many of his former aides and supporters will feel a personal loyalty to him, but what might be called its element of transferability to other Kennedys is subject to the attrition of time. That attrition rarely displays itself more brutally and quickly than it does in politics.

Joseph P. Kennedy, who in his long and successful career, financial and political, occupied the front seats of power, can no longer advise his family in the same way. The children have got to make it as best they can with the help of their mother, who has been trained in politics since childhood.

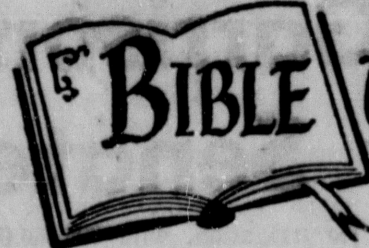

Attorney General Robert Kennedy will stay on here until after the election at least. Sargent Shriver, head of the Peace Corps, has been put by President Johnson in charge of the new war on poverty.

In a political sense, this makes Kennedy and Shriver rivals for the vice presidency, and the President has been told, though he disclaims the intention of creating the situation. What the attorney general and the Shriver think, they have not revealed.

Mrs. Shriver was very close to her brother, the President, and seems in many ways to have her father's tough mind and managerial talent. Probably much depends on what she thinks.

Some old family friends believe Sen. Edward Kennedy has the best political sense of them all, but he is constitutionally ineligible to be President, being only 32, apart from other considerations.

Still Puffing

Lincoln, Neb.

I was interested in reading the letter in the February 14 Star entitled "Will Power" and signed by "Non-Smoker." The letter took issue with Nancy Ray, who wrote a series of humorous articles on the trials and tribulations of the confirmed smoker.

The non-smoker stated: "Smoking is one of the filthiest habits anyone can have. It smells up clothes, hands and breath, keeps the smoker from attending the PTA, church and other gatherings because he has to have that puff." "Non-smoker" also states he or she "has not smoked for 40 years and has never tasted tobacco."

I find it hard to believe that "Non-Smoker" has no bad habits that are not offensive to others. There surely is no person in this world who hasn't one bad habit.

I think if "Non-Smoker" attends church on Sunday, there will be someone there, and surely some children must take an interest in school, or there would be no scholarships or universities.

I enjoyed the articles by Nancy Ray. May we have more touches of humor and less hogwash by "Non-Smoker." In the meantime, I intend to keep puffing.

Paradise Lost

Lincoln, Neb.

One of the sensations of recent days has been Comrade Nosenko, who asked for and received U.S. asylum rights. He was a pretty big "pike" on the Russian disarmament team in the Geneva talks headed by Mr. Tsarapkin. His facial grimaces when he was speaking may be remembered.

In Russian, "tsarapaty" means "to scrap." Now Mr. Tsarapkin is very excited because Nosenko has the Russian secrets and the Russian team leader now "scraps" little Switzerland as well as our country. Why? Nosenko left behind him the "paradise."

Advertising

Anselmo, Neb.

Must we continue to advertise cigarettes? When we know something is dangerous, should we be allowed to picture it as something glorious and picture it to our children as the proper way? Alcohol is another danger, both to body and mind. We find half our traffic accidents and deaths are caused by liquor and more homes are broken up by liquor than anything else. Must we advertise and picture it as the way to be happy? The Bible tells us that wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise. Also that no drunkard shall enter heaven.

More than half our population are church people. Do they approve of this advertising? We are told that the love of money is the root of all evil. Do we love money more than life? People who use liquor or tobacco could keep on, but why must we try to induce our children to get the habit?

Hate Groups

Lincoln, Neb.

How "red" are the hate groups?

It is the purpose of a fifth column to create confusion, distrust and internal conflict. They have done this quite effectively by accusing Kennedy, Eisenhower and Warren of being traitors, and have managed to make "patriot" and "conservative" the equivalent of "crazy" much to the detriment of such reputable organizations as the Republican party, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and others.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

During the recent A.I.C., more than 3,000 people recognized that Nebraska news media value the importance of agriculture. Likewise, they recognized that our news media believe in cooperatives. I still receive many comments on this when attending meetings in other states.

Glen Kreuscher has again proved this by the excellent, complete news coverage given to our recent annual meeting. We certainly believe in the importance of cooperatives in our agricultural economy and we very much appreciate The Star's publicity.

State Pensions

Lincoln, Neb.

The Lincoln Star has brought up an interesting subject regarding pension funds. The public can wonder how the Legislature can pass a constitutional bill to supply money to start a pension fund for any state employee or to pass a legal bill to supply money to match that which the employee pays in from tax dollars.

A pension is extra compensation after services have been rendered. Article III, Section 19 states very clearly that the Legislature shall never grant any extra compensation to any public officer, agent or servant after service has been rendered.

The University of Nebraska is now collecting from the average worker between $8 and $12 per month and the University matches this from tax dollars, of course, as it is a tax-supported part of Nebraska.

If it is the claim of the Legislature that they can pass a constitutional bill for the pensioning of state employees, then it would seem they could set up pensions for everyone.

The public can certainly question the wisdom of the research department of the Legislature, because in the last session they were wrong as many times as they were right. In fact, the public can wonder if the Legislature has a research department.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed. Reed

The town of Scottsdale is about 10 minutes from the desert-reaching city limits of Phoenix. A desert Cadillac breeze from the resort area around Camelback mountain. It was built as a tourist Western town — as realistic as a movie set. It has store fronts like "Gunsmoke," hitching rails, bar rails, Western stores with boots and saddles. It had a cross roads with four stop signs and 2000 people.

Into this Western oasis rode the weary stranger. Mounted on his trusty, rented station wagon. Armed with his trusty travelers' checks.

He hitched his mount in a parking space by the Lulu Belle saloon.

They did not treat the stranger like they do on TV—like—"This town is too small for strangers, stranger!"

They said: "Light and set, stranger. And while you are at it, stranger, how about some genuine Navajo reservation turquoise and silver jewelry?"

4 Reformatory Inmates Handed Additional Terms

Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles sentenced four Men's Reformatory inmates to additional terms on double charges of escape and burglary and escape and auto theft.

Richard Hayes and Paul Howard Anderson had pleaded guilty to charges of escaping from the Reformatory where they were confined Jan. 29, and breaking and entering the home of Helen Clegg at Denton.

Judge Boyles sentenced each to one year on the first count and two years on the second count, and ordered the terms to run consecutive to each other and to the terms the inmates are presently serving.

Dennis Fitzgerald and Richard Anthony Leyba both had pleaded guilty to charges of escaping from the Reformatory where they were confined Jan. 31, and taking an automobile belonging to a Lincoln man.

Judge Boyles sentenced each to one year on the first count and two years on the second count, and ordered the terms to run concurrently to each other and consecutive to the terms they are now serving.

Justice Department Agents Probe Again In Hot Springs

Hot Springs, Ark. (AP)—Justice Department agents turned up in this resort city Tuesday in an investigation of what they called the biggest illegal gambling operation in the U.S.

William Hundley, chief of the organized crime section of the Justice Department, arrived Monday night, took one look at the wide-open, plush gambling casinos and told a news conference Tuesday:

"It seems awfully hard for me to comprehend that gambling of this scope could possibly be self-contained within the confines of the state of Arkansas."

He said the glittering casinos and bars harbored the biggest illegal gambling operation in the nation.

Hit stride

Gambling hit its stride here Saturday with opening of the spring season at Oaklawn Park race track.

Hundley said ex-mobster Joseph Valachi, who testified before a congressional committee recently on the operations of the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate, had told him that Hot Springs was a gathering spot for Chicago and New York hoodlums.

City officials say this has not been true for years. Hundley said Valachi hadn't been here since 1933.

Civil Rights Work May Stall Wheat-Cotton Bill

Washington (AP)—Indications piled up Tuesday that wheat-cotton legislation will be shelved so the Senate can dive into the lengthy civil rights battle as soon as the big tax cut bill is sent to the White House.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democratic leader, told newsmen early in the day any hope for the farm measure lay in agreement by Republicans to limit debate on it to two or three days.

Later, Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he had informed Humphrey he could give no such assurance because "there is objection to this bill among some Republicans."

Rather Long

"I expect it would fall (SIC) into a rather long and acrimonious discussion," Dirksen said. "I wouldn't agree that it would be disposed of quickly."

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said if the measure gets snarled in the civil rights debate no farm bill is likely to be passed this year. Both Humphrey and Ellender said that unless the wheat-cotton legislation can be passed before March 1, it will not be effective for this year's crops.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has said the need for such a bill is urgent and Ellender is trying to win committee agreement on a bill. But Humphrey, speaking to newsmen after a conference of party leaders with the President on his choice, said:

"Insisting

"President Johnson is insisting on some action on civil rights. Our present intention, after action on the tax reduction bill, is to move on to civil rights."

With Senate-House conferees busily wrapping up a compromise tax cut of $11 billion plus, final action by the Senate and House is expected soon. House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said he hopes the House can act the latter part of this week.

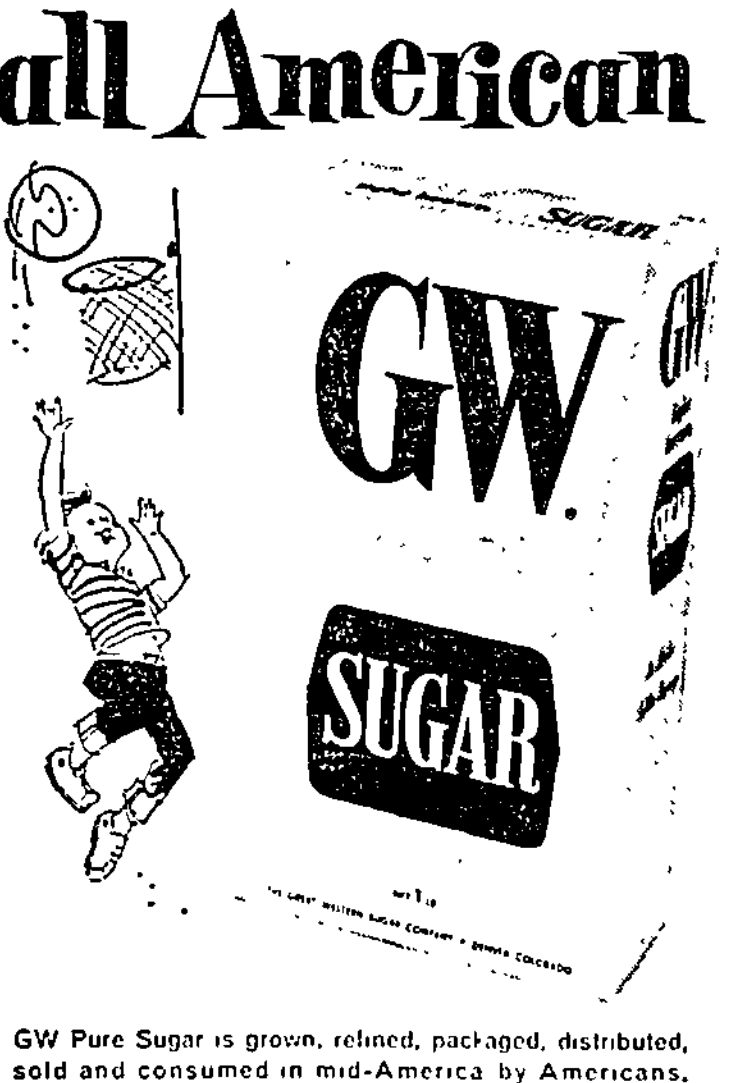

The Senate will take up the tax conference report after the House acts on it.

No Date Set

In discussing the outlook with newsmen, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana set no date for starting on the civil rights bill.

Both Mansfield and Humphrey stressed, however, that they expect the civil rights fight to be prolonged.

"I rather anticipate," Mansfield said, "that when we take up the civil rights bill we will be on it not for weeks but for months."

Twin-Engine Private Plane Hijacked, Flown To Havana

Miami, Fla. (AP)—A twin-engine private plane, chartered for a flight to Key West by two Spanish-speaking men, was hijacked and flown to Cuba Tuesday.

Jets from Boca Chica Naval Air Station at Key West scrambled but failed to intercept or sight the plane after the pilot reported that the plane was being forced to fly to Havana.

'At Gunpoint'

The pilot's mother said a federal agency spokesman called about noon and said, "My son was at gunpoint on the way to Cuba." She couldn't recall the name of the agency.

The pilot, 23-year-old Richard Wright, called Key West radio and asked for a Havana radio frequency, the Federal Aviation Agency in Atlanta said. A Spanish-speaking voice — believed to be one of the passengers — was heard moments later talking by radio with Havana.

The FAA inquired later and was told by Havana control center that the Piper Apache landed at Camp Liberty near Havana.

Wright's mother said she had been informed that her son was in Cuba, but had no word on when her son might be allowed to return.

First In Months

The hijacking was the first in many months, although a shrimp boat was stolen from Key West last week and sailed to Havana. Fidel Castro said he would return the boat. Several years ago, there was a rash of airplane hijacking by pro-Castroites.

Public Power Rates Could Be Lower—Callan

Power Review Board Chairman Clair Callan of Odell Tuesday said Nebraska has "not yet realized the full potential and benefits" of a 100% public power state.

Its residential electric rates are fifth lowest in the nation, he noted. But, considering the obvious tax advantages of a public utility, they might be even lower, he said.

"The laws of economics will dictate changes and improvements," Callan declared in an address to members of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association.

If Nebraska can "beat our competitors" in attractive electric rates, it will improve its industrial expansion opportunities, Callan pointed out.

The Power Board, he said, hopes to point the way toward "the most efficient and economic system" possible.

Nazi Wanted To End Mother's Pain

Limburg, Germany (UPI)—A pale and trembling former Nazi official, charged in the mass murders of handicapped Germans in Adolf Hitler's campaign to "purify" the so-called master race, Tuesday said he tried to have his ailing mother "put out of her misery."

Dr. Hans Hefelmann, 58, told of the attempt which he said occurred before Hitler came into power. He made the statement at the opening of his trial for what the prosecutor called "this most merciless crime."

Hefelmann was one of four Nazi officials accused of taking part in the so-called "mercy killings" of more than 100,000 physically and mentally handicapped Germans. The other three evaded trial by suicide, a fatal plunge and bail-jumping.

One Of Three

His trial is one of three in West Germany in which former Nazis are being prosecuted for crimes committed during World War II.

In Braunschweig, an ex-Nazi cavalry officer accused with four other defendants of helping to kill 5,200 Russian Jews, blamed the massacre on Hitler's brother-in-law, SS Col. Hermann Fegelein.

The trial in Frankfurt of 20 former Nazi officials and a turncoat inmate on charges of murdering up to 4 million persons at the infamous Auschwitz death camp was in recess until Friday.

Accused

Accused with Hefelmann were Dr. Werner Heyde, Dr. Friedrich Tilmann and Dr. Gerhard Bohne. Heyde, the chief defendant accused of masterminding the "mercy killing" program, committed suicide in his cell last Thursday. Tilmann fell to his death from a Cologne building the day before. Bohne jumped bail and fled to Argentina.

Hefelmann, charged with helping in 73,000 "mercy killings," spoke of his mother while trying to make excuses for his part in Hitler's drive to eliminate the handicapped.

"It was back in 1928," he told the court. "Mother suffered terribly from a shaking paralysis. I went to a doctor and asked him for mercy killing for mama. He threw me out of his office."

Awful Pain

"Mamma then tried to drown herself but she lived two more years in awful pain," he said. "It was terrible for her."

Hefelmann identified the doctor who refused to end his mother's sufferings as Prof. Ferdinand Sauerbruch, one of pre-war Germany's most famous surgeons.

Hefelmann told the court that he did not want to take part in the "mercy killing" program which Hitler was forced to call off to preserve home front morale.

Hit Stride

Gambling hit its stride here Saturday with opening of the spring season at Oaklawn Park race track.

Hundley said ex-mobster Joseph Valachi, who testified before a congressional committee recently on the operations of the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate, had told him that Hot Springs was a gathering spot for Chicago and New York hoodlums.

City officials say this has not been true for years. Hundley said Valachi hadn't been here since 1933.

Civil Rights Work May Stall Wheat-Cotton Bill

Washington (AP)—Indications piled up Tuesday that wheat-cotton legislation will be shelved so the Senate can dive into the lengthy civil rights battle as soon as the big tax cut bill is sent to the White House.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democratic leader, told newsmen early in the day any hope for the farm measure lay in agreement by Republicans to limit debate on it to two or three days.

Later, Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he had informed Humphrey he could give no such assurance because "there is objection to this bill among some Republicans."

Rather Long

"I expect it would tail (sic) into a rather long and acrimonious discussion," Dirksen said. "I wouldn't agree that it would be disposed of quickly."

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said if the measure gets snarled in the civil rights debate no farm bill is likely to be passed this year. Both Humphrey and Ellender said that unless the wheat-cotton legislation can be passed before March 1, it will not be effective for this year's crops.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has said the need for such a bill is urgent and Ellender is trying to win committee agreement on a bill. But Humphrey, speaking to newsmen after a conference of party leaders with the President on his choice, said:

Insisting

"President Johnson is insisting on some action on civil rights. Our present intention, after action on the tax reduction bill, is to move on to civil rights."

With Senate House conferees busily wrapping up a compromise tax cut of $11 billion plus, final action by the Senate and House is expected soon. House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said he hopes the House can act the latter part of this week.

The Senate will take up the tax conference report after the House acts on it.

No Date Set

In discussing the outlook with newsmen, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana set no date for starting on the civil rights bill.

Both Mansfield and Humphrey stressed, however, that they expect the civil rights fight to be prolonged.

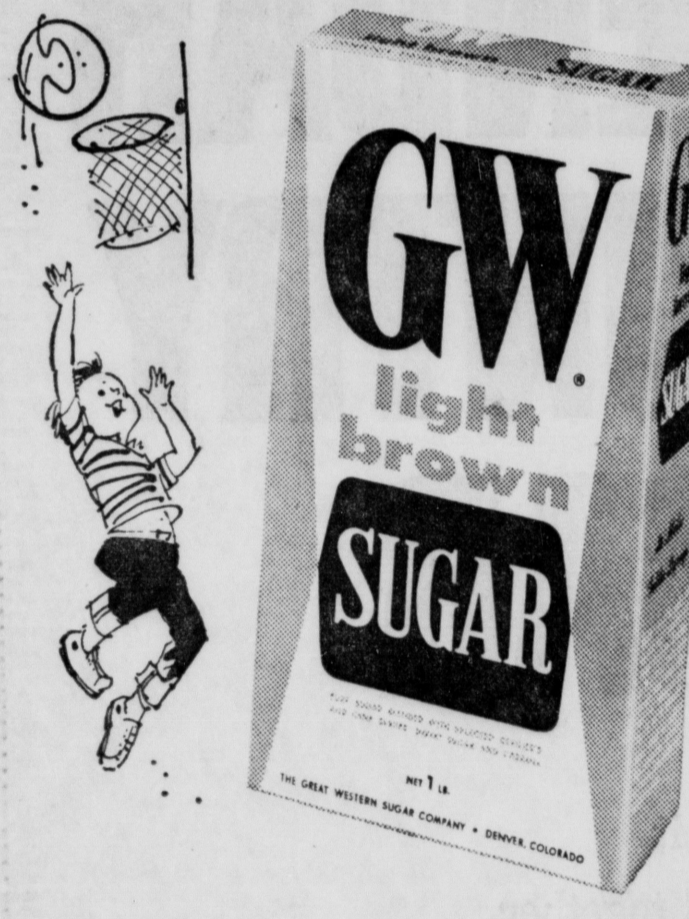

"I rather anticipate," Mansfield said, "that when we take up the civil rights bill we will be on it not for weeks but for months."

Twin-Engine Private Plane Hijacked, Flown To Havana

Miami, Fla. (AP)—A twin-engine private plane, chartered for a flight to Key West by two Spanish-speaking men, was hijacked and flown to Cuba Tuesday.

Jets from Boca Chica Naval Air Station at Key West scrambled but failed to intercept or sight the plane after the pilot reported that the was being forced to fly to Havana.

'At Gunpoint'

The pilot's mother said a federal agency spokesman called about noon and said, "My son was at gunpoint on the way to Cuba." She couldn't recall the name of the agency.

The pilot, 23-year-old Richard Wright, called Key West radio and asked for a Havana radio frequency, the Federal Aviation Agency in Atlanta said. A Spanish-speaking voice — believed to be one of the passengers — was heard moments later talking by radio with Havana.

The FAA inquired later and was told by Havana control center that the Piper Apache landed at Camp Liberty near Havana.

Wright's mother said she had been informed that her son was in Cuba, but had no word on when her son might be allowed to return.

First In Months

The hijacking was the first in many months, although a shrimp boat was stolen from Key West last week and sailed to Havana. Fidel Castro said he would return the boat. Several years ago, there was a rash of airplane hijacking by pro-Castroites.

Public Power Rates Could Be Lower—Callan

Power Review Board Chairman Clair Callan of Odell Tuesday said Nebraska has "not yet realized the full potential and benefits" of a 100% public power state.

Its residential electric rates are fifth lowest in the nation, he noted. But, considering the obvious tax advantages of a public utility, they might be even lower, he said.

"The laws of economics will dictate changes and improvements," Callan declared in an address to members of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association.

If Nebraska can "beat our competitors" in attractive electric rates, it will improve its industrial expansion opportunities, Callan pointed out.

The Power Board, he said, hopes to point the way toward "the most efficient and economic system" possible.

Nazi Wanted To End Mother's Pain

Limburg, Germany (UPI)—A pale and trembling former Nazi official, charged in the mass murders of handicapped Germans in Adolf Hitler's campaign to "purify" the so-called master race, Tuesday said he tried to have his ailing mother "put out of her misery."

Dr. Hans Hefelmann, 58, told of the attempt which he said occurred before Hitler came into power. He made the statement at the opening of his trial for what the prosecutor called "this most merciless crime."

Hefelmann was only one of four Nazi officials accused of taking part in the so-called "mercy killings" of more than 100,000 physically and mentally handicapped Germans. The other three evaded trial by suicide, a fatal plunge and bail-jumping.

One Of Three

His trial is one of three in West Germany in which former Nazis are being prosecuted for crimes committed during World War II.

In Braunschweig, an ex-Nazi cavalry officer accused with four other defendants of helping to kill 5,200 Russian Jews, blamed the massacre on Hitler's brother-in-law, SS Col. Hermann Fegelein.

The trial in Frankfurt of 20 former Nazi officials and a turncoat inmate on charges of murdering up to 4 million persons at the infamous Auschwitz death camp was in recess until Friday.

Accused

Accused with Hefelmann were Dr. Werner Heyde, Dr. Friedrich Tillmann and Dr. Gerhard Bohne. Heyde, the chief defendant accused of masterminding the "mercy killing" program, committed suicide in his cell last Thursday. Tillmann fell to his death from a Cologne building the day before. Bohne jumped bail and fled to Argentina.

Hefelmann, charged with helping in 73,000 "mercy killings," spoke of his mother while trying to make excuses for his part in Hitler's drive to eliminate the handicapped.

"It was back in 1928," he told the court. "Mother suffered terribly from a shaking paralysis. I went to a doctor and asked him for mercy killing for mama. He threw me out of his office."

Awful Pain

"Mamma then tried to drown herself but she lived two more years in awful pain," he said. "It was terrible for her."

Hefelmann identified the doctor who refused to end his mother's sufferings as Prof. Ferdinand Sauerbruch, one of pre-war Germany's most famous surgeons.

Hefelmann told the court that he did not want to take part in the "mercy killing" program which Hitler was forced to call off to preserve home front morale.

REA OK Of Loan 'Difficult'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

White House aide Lee C. White Tuesday warned that the Rural Electrification Administration will find it difficult to approve a Nebraska request for REA construction funds until the state's power supply problem is settled.

White, a native Nebraskan and assistant special counsel to the President, addressed a luncheon meeting of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association.

"REA has tried to make it clear that it will find great difficulty in approving any loan application until a reasonable solution has been found to the present power supply problem," White said. With a number of Nebraska power agencies contemplating seeking REA money for generation and transmission construction, "we may have the seeds of a dilemma," he pointed out.

Could Claim
The Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative may be able to claim it has power needs to meet, but have difficulty demonstrating they cannot be met satisfactorily through the Nebraska Public Power System.

"On the other hand, NPPS can hardly secure a loan to build facilities unless and until it has an assured load requirement."

Congressional committees, White noted, have instructed REA "to assure itself of the legitimate needs and unavailability of other suitable supplies before approving G & T loans."

Will Seek Loan
(The Nebraska Electric G & T, a cooperative of 23 rural districts, announced just Monday that it will seek an REA loan to finance construction of a 230-kilovolt transmission line from Ft. Randall to Grand Island.)

"The need to resolve the present difficulties and to get underway soon because of the long lead time in constructing generating facilities argues for abandoning recriminations, charges, counter-charges and insults," White declared.

"They seem to be luxuries that cannot safely be afforded any longer."

White suggested discussion, negotiation and compromise, all "governed by what is in the best interest of the electric consumers of the state, which, of course, includes every Nebraskan."

Among issues which might be discussed, he said, are representation on the NPPS board, rates and the adequacy of facilities.

Meanwhile, White said, REA is now making plans to undertake a power supply survey in Nebraska, a prerequisite to any approval of loans for generation and transmission facilities.

U.S. Ending Aid To Three Countries Still Serving Cuba

Washington (AP)—The United States is ending aid to three countries and suspending new assistance to two others because their ships and planes continue to go to Cuba.

The State Department announced Tuesday that in carrying out Congress' new aid law ban on assistance to nations trafficking with the Fidel Castro regime:

1. American aid to Britain, France and Yugoslavia is being terminated.
2. Spain and Morocco will get no new U.S. aid pending their replies to a U.S. inquiry on what steps they are taking to cut down their Cuba traffic. Meanwhile already-existing U.S. aid programs for the nations will continue.

Take Steps.

3. The other 11 U.S.-aided lands whose ships or planes have visited Cuba in the past will continue to receive U.S. help because they have taken "appropriate steps" to end such commerce.

The amounts involved in the aid cutoff to Britain, France and Yugoslavia are small compared with the $3-billion global U.S. aid total and the volume of business the three carry on with Cuba.

About $25,000 to $30,000 was said informally to be the amount involved in the French cutoff. The British figure was reported to be even less, and the Yugoslav also was described as "very small." The funds involved military training and sales arrangements for these three.

Bigger Amounts

Spain and Morocco involve much bigger amounts. Spain, site of large U.S. bases, was listed as receiving some $30 million in arms aid last year. Morocco was reported to have obtained about $20 million in economic assistance plus unspecified amounts of military assistance.

Over U.S. protests, Spain has established regular commercial air service with Cuba, once a Spanish colony. Morocco has been buying large quantities of sugar from the Caribbean island.

The Johnson administration decided on the action after the congressional provision went into effect last Friday. Part of the new aid law, it specifies that no funds shall go to those nations which failed to take "appropriate steps" to prevent their ships and planes from carrying goods to and from Cuba.

Provision

Another provision allows the President to continue the U.S. aid if he finds this to be in the U.S. interest.

Not affected by the law is U.S. aid in the form of surplus farm goods, Peace Corps volunteer work and Export-Import Bank loans. Nor are such cash transactions as France's purchase of a dozen U.S. KC133 tanker planes.

The administration refused to say what specific aid amounts are involved, or what "appropriate steps" were taken, by the countries which did not have their U.S. assistance ended.

Farm Trucks' Capacity Basis For Registration

Farm trucks should be registered on the basis of factory rated carrying capacity, and not on the basis of either net cargo load or gross vehicle weight, the attorney general's office ruled Wednesday.

Sen. Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont had requested a ruling on farm truck registrations after he learned the Department of Motor Vehicles' manual to county treasurers ordered farm truck registrations based on cargo weight.

Rasmussen said the cargo weight basis hiked the fees on farm trucks under one ton to $12.50, and he contended the registration fee should be based on factory rated carrying capacity which would make it $8.50.

The Justice Department opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. C. C. Sheldon, noted that a truck licensing bill enacted by the 1963 Legislature, LB739, provided for licensing local trucks on the basis of factory rated carrying capacity.

For Recreation

The same section of the new law also provides for the licensing of farm trucks one ton or under for $8, and over one ton at $12.

(The additional 50-cent charge goes into the new recreation area access road fund.)

Motor Vehicle Director B. H. G. Eiting said the ruling "will make some variation in the fees for farm truck licenses as originally set forth in the manual."

Asked about the possibility of refunds to those who had registered their trucks on the basis of cargo weight, Eiting said they would "have to be handled by applications to county treasurers' offices."

High Court Asked To Rule Three Finance Bills Invalid

Hall County Atty. Richard De Backer of Grand Island Tuesday asked the Nebraska Supreme Court to declare invalid three retroactive, penalty-reducing credit finance bills passed by the Legislature.

De Backer, counsel for James A. and Joan B. Davis of Shelton, contended in a brief filed with the court that LB16, 17 and 19 are unconstitutional. He requested the Hall County District Court ruling holding otherwise be overturned.

The case involves a test suit of the bills brought by the couple against Kimmann Chevrolet-Cadillac, Inc., of Grand Island, and the General Motors acceptance Corp. Hall County District Court Judge Donald H. Weaver ruled the three so-called remedial bill constitutional.

The Davis couple had sought to cancel a contract on a three-ton truck, receive title to the truck, and recover money already paid under the $8,136 contract.

The three bills were passed in an effort to lighten the penalty burden on retailers and others who followed the unconstitutional 1959 and 1963 installment sales acts "in good faith."

DeBacker said the laws are class legislation and an attempt by the Legislature to breathe life into void contracts.

"It is apparent from the statements of policy incorporated by the Legislature in LB16 and LB19 that these enactments... constitute a bald attempt on the part of the Legislature, and on the part of the money-lending industry through its lobbying efforts within the Legislature, to undo and to make ineffectual the holdings of this (Supreme) court wherein special laws governing interest have been stricken down," the brief stated.

St. Elizabeth Hospital Project, Fund-Raising Drive Approved

St. Elizabeth Hospital officials gained approval from the Lincoln Hospital Council Tuesday for the program to construct a new facility, including the launching of a community-wide fund-raising drive by early 1965.

Kenneth W. L. hospital board president, told Lincoln Hospital Council members that plans included launching an immediate study into the financial feasibility of the project and continuing the search for a site.

If the study shows the project feasible, Witt explained, building plans, cost studies and intensive planning for the fund-raising campaign will be next.

Witt noted that "a large dimension capital fund campaign will be imperative" to finance the new hospital, estimates, and a favorable feasibility report.

The hospital board is "hopeful of beginning intensive work" on organizing a fund drive by early fall, Witt said, and must first acquire a site option on at least a 25-acre area, and obtain preliminary architect's sketches, cost estimates, and a favorable feasibility report.

The Lincoln Hospital Council also approved a recommendation specifying that portions of the old hospital may be disposed of or used for uses not related to acute general hospital services.

Recommendations concerning Lincoln General Hospital facilities approved by the council included:

—Completion of the proposed Lincoln General Hospital center to provide a modern, acute general hospital and to accomplish a coordinated and comprehensive medical and hospital program encompassing acute, long term, convalescent and psychiatric patient care.

—Provision, upon completion of the expansion and renovation program, for a hospital center of approximately 376 beds, including 226 for acute services and 150 for long-term care, excluding any facilities in the adjacent county convalescent care project.

Improvement District Assessments Approved

The City Council as a Board of Equalization approved Tuesday a total of $471,115.46 in assessments against 32 special improvement districts for paving, water, sewer and lighting.

All were approved without change except for a $308 reduction on the Herman Vander Griend property near 56th and South. The assessment before reduction was $1,008.90.

Vander Griend claimed a curb which he had replaced in 1953 at the city's direction was redone in the

Missionary Unit Founder Lewis Dies

W. G. Lewis, 79, of 1245 H, a former Lincoln businessman and founder of Missionary Supporters, Inc., died Monday in Seattle.

Mr. Lewis was owner of the Lincoln Hatchery until 1953 when he sold the business to devote more time to training missionary dentists.

He was born in Pawnee Rock, Kan., and after attending school in Michigan, he received his masters degree in physics from the University of Chicago.

Mr. Lewis, a Baptist and a member of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, came to Lincoln in 1917 and built a chick hatchery at 37th and South. On a tourist trip to Africa in 1937 he became impressed with the lack of dental care available to missionaries.

Returned To Africa

After returning to Lincoln, he began studying dentistry and, armed with what he had learned, returned to Africa to provide free dental care for missionaries in that country.

Mr. Lewis conducted dental training schools for future missionaries at Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Salem, Ark., where he established Missionary Supporters, Inc.

In 1953 he retired from the hatchery business to devote full time to his missionary dentistry program.

Mr. Lewis made trips to the Philippines, Hong Kong, Formosa, Japan and Hawaii to provide free dental care and at one time worked on the teeth of Chiang Kai-shek and his wife.

Clinic In Mexico

In January of 1963 Mr. Lewis set up a free dental clinic in Tijuana, Mexico, despite the protests of local dentists.

Mrs. Lewis died only 17 days before her husband.

Survivors include four sons, Dr. Warren of Rockford, Ill.; Glen of Detroit; the Rev. Norman of Seattle, and Fred of Montrose, Pa. A daughter, Patricia, lives in Cleveland, Ohio, and a sister, Winnifred Lewis, in Lincoln.

THEIR MASTER IS RETIRING

Commissaryman First Class Frank Medina salutes eight of his shipmates and eight of his champion beagle dogs as he is piped over the side upon retirement from the Navy at the Glynn Naval Air Station at Glynn, Ga. Medina has earned fame in the outside world with his beagle raising so his dogs were included in his retirement honors. Additionally, his commanding officer commended Medina for "hard work, diligence and attention to duty while attached to the produce department of the commissary store."

Trial Slated For 4 Cuban Captains

Key West, Fla. (AP)—Trial of the four captains of Cuban government-owned fishing vessels on charges of poaching in Florida waters was set Tuesday for Wednesday.

The Cubans waived jury trial. They also waived arraignment.

Judge Thomas Caro set the trial date after hearing a lengthy defense attack on constitutionality of the Florida law under which the 29 are charged.

The 72-year-old Monroe County criminal court judge could give the Cubans up to six months in jail and $500 fine. The 25 crewmen charged with the captains will be tried later, or their cases could be dismissed.

Denied Request

Judge Caro denied a request from defense attorneys Leonard Boudin and Michael Standford to drop charges. The trawlers were detained Feb. 2 in Florida's Dry Tortugas waters.

Asst. State Atty. Gen. Joe Jacobs and County Solicitor Allan B. Cleare countered that the Florida charges were legal.

The defendants, most of them still attired in the gray uniforms of the government-owned "fleet of the gulf," sat in bewildered silence, then were returned to jail.

Violates Constitution

Boudin contended the law prohibiting unlicensed alien vessels from taking or possessing state natural resources in state waters violates the U.S. Constitution on these grounds:

It takes over "the foreign affairs and war powers of the U.S. government" contrary to constitutional stipulations.

It is discriminatory since aliens asking political asylum are exempted from penalties.

Two members of the fleet did get asylum and were not charged.

Contended

The defense contended too that the fishermen operated only in international waters. The prosecution disputed this.

Jacobs told the court that Florida law demands the licensing of fishing vessels whether they be alien or domestic.

"It has not been shown that these boats were licensed so they violated Florida law," Jacobs said. "It is as simple as that."

Boudin told the court the 25 crewmen could not have been guilty of any law violation "since they merely followed orders."

'Morally Certain'

City Engineer Carl Fisher said he was "morally certain" this was not so but the council ordered the minor reduction because the record was not clear.

Walt Vesteska, representing the Handy System Inc., questioned the assessment against property leased to King's Drive-In on South near 40th.

He agreed the company's property on the north was rightly assessed under a rezoning agreement.

The council indicated the city would pay the cost of the street assessment against the restaurant property if Vesteska "would build a stacking lane for restaurant traffic on its property."

Lack Of Room

Vesteska replied this was "impossible" because of lack of room.

Harry Shelley and attorney Miles Johnston, representing two other property owners, questioned the $15.66 per front foot cost for opening and paving Cotner between South and Normal, but not the distribution.

Engineering officials said the special opening project involved a higher ratio of paving to the amount of assessable property.

Trial Slated For 4 Cuban Captains

Key West, Fla. (AP)— Trial of the four captains of Cuban government-owned fishing vessels on charges of poaching in Florida waters was set Tuesday for Wednesday.

The Cubans waived jury trial. They also waived arraignment.

Judge Thomas Caro set the trial date after hearing a lengthy defense attack on constitutionality of the Florida law under which the 29 are charged.

The 72-year-old Monroe County criminal court judge could give the Cubans up to six months in jail and $500 fine. The 25 crewmen charged with the captains will be tried later, or their cases could be dismissed.

Denied Request

Judge Caro denied a request from defense attorneys Leonard Boudin and Michael Standard to drop charges. The trawlers were detained Feb. 2 in Florida's Dry Tortugas waters.

Asst. State Atty. Gen. Joe Jacobs and County Solicitor Allan B. Cleare countered that the Florida charges were legal.

The defendants, most of them still attired in the gray uniforms of the government-owned "fleet of the gulf," sat in bewildered silence, then were returned to jail.

Violates Constitution

Boudin contended the law prohibiting unlicensed alien vessels from taking or possessing state natural resources in state waters violates the U.S. Constitution on these grounds:

It takes over "the foreign affairs and war powers of the U.S. government" contrary to constitutional stipulations.

It is discriminatory since aliens asking political asylum are exempted from penalties.

Two members of the fleet did get asylum and were not charged.

Contended

The defense contended too that the fishermen operated only in international waters. The prosecution disputed this.

Jacobs told the court that Florida law demands the licensing of fishing vessels whether they be alien or domestic.

"It has not been shown that these boats were licensed so they violated Florida law," Jacobs said. "it is as simple as that."

Boudin told the court the 25 crewmen could not have been guilty of any law violation "since they merely followed orders."

Good Morning

Whatever opinion you may have of the morning at this moment—just relax. All it can do is become worse—and it might even get better. And there is no time like right now for the 'Mom' of the family to 'take five' for a little peace and quiet.

We suggest this because we have just read a statistic—The American Podiatry Association reports that the homemaker walks between 10 and 12 miles each day in performing her regular household chores.

We know one group of homemakers, however, who devoted a portion of Tuesday to more fun—and less work.

The fun was at the home of Mrs. M. G. Volz who entertained at a '14 calorie' luncheon as a courtesy to Mrs. Carl Junge, who, with Mr. Junge, arrived from Minnesota a few days ago for a stay of several weeks in Lincoln.

Actually the 14 calorie party was part of the fun. Mrs. Volz had a small table laden with this and that in the way of non-calorie food, but we hasten to add none of them was on the luncheon menu.

Following luncheon the afternoon was devoted to bridge.

Hear that an Italian beauty expert has come up with something brand new—eye make-up for men. This should be a fascinating experience for the male population. One man tells us he scarcely can wait—he is 'getting so bored with his round-eyed, innocent look.'

Marriage Solemnized

At a candlelight ceremony solemnized on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 18, Miss Joye Ann Von Danc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Von Danc of Washington, 111., formerly of Lincoln, became the bride of Gerald W. Lippert, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lippert, also of Washington, 111. The lines of the service were read by the Rev. Carl Kammeyer at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Washington, and Charles Washburn, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalist was Mrs. Fred Foster.

Wearing a floor-length sheath of royal blue satin and carrying a cascade of white chrysanthemums and stephanotis was Miss Kay McWilliams, Washington, the maid of honor and bride's only attendant.

Bruce Gilmour of Peoria, Ill., served Mr. Lippert as best man, and seating the guests were James Von Danc and Dennis Lippert.

The bride's gown of white Chantilly lace was designed in the colonial mode. A sabrina neckline and long sleeves accented the basque, and the full skirt of lace and tulle tiers was trimmed with clusters of lace roses. Her silk illusion veil was held by a coronet of crystal beading, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with a white orchid and stephanotis.

Mr. Lippert and his bride will make their home in Washington, 111.

Did you know that during 1963 seventy-five thousand husbands were reported missing? According to a New York firm that specializes in finding missing people, the figure is an all time high.

Age: 44 to 51 years; occupation: salesman or semi-executive; education: two and a half years of college; personality: amiable and aggressive.

There are gray skies one moment, and blue skies the next. The color of the sky, of course depends upon which hour of the day you see it. This serves to remind us that spring showers will be here all too soon.

For the average person, spring shower just means hanging up a wet raincoat, but for the mothers of small children, the process is more involved.

There is the routine morning question, "Do you have your scarf, umbrella, golashes, raincoat, and covers for your books?" And there are the routine evening questions, "Where are your scarf, umbrella, golashes, raincoat, and why are your books wet?"

Luckily enough, even a pre-spring shower can not dampen the social life in suburbia, and there is not one puddle of despondency in Cotner Terrace this week.

Meeting at the home of Mrs. Ed Leikam Wednesday evening will be members of her plinocle eightsome, which includes Mrs. Arthur Vogel, Mrs. Jack Blunk, Mrs. Thomas Novak, Mrs. Albert Klein, Mrs. William Fagler, Mrs. Jeff Withrow, and Mrs. Francis Peters.

In addition to an evening of cards, the ladies will enjoy coffee and dessert served by Mrs. Leikam.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Larson and their children, Donna and Larry will be leaving Friday evening for a week-end trip to Kearney. They will be the guests of Mrs. Larson's mother, Mrs. Beulah Stangenberg and will also visit Mr. Larson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Larson of Axtell.

Mr. and Mrs. Larson and family plan to return home Sunday evening.

Weekend travels are not limited to one Cotner Terrace family, for Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne L. Stauffer and their sons, Tracy and Troy also plan a short trip.

They will leave Saturday for Culbertson and the home of Mrs. Stauffer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cook, where they will attend a post-nuptial shower for Mrs. Stauffer's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cook, who were married Feb. 3.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maronde were Mrs. Maronde's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Treacle, their son John, of Waco, and their daughter, Frances Mary Stewart, who is a senior at Nebraska Wesleyan.

Mr. and Mrs. Treacle and their family were entertained at a Sunday dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Maronde at their home.

Mrs. Charles Leddy and Mrs. Frank Coffman were co-hostesses Friday evening when they entertained at a post-nuptial party at the home of Mrs. Leddy. The honoree for the miscellaneous shower was Mrs. John Heinmann, formerly Miss Vicky Weckman, and the guests included friends of Mrs. Heinmann.

Marriage Solemnized

At a candlelight ceremony solemnized on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 18, Miss Joye Ann Von Dane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Von Dane of Washington, Ill., formerly of Lincoln, became the bride of Gerald W. Lippert, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lippert, also of Washington, Ill. The lines of the service were read by the Rev. Carl Kammeyer at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Washington, and Charles Washburn, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalist was Mrs. Fred Foster.

Wearing a floor-length sheath of royal blue satin and carrying a cascade of white chrysanthemums and stephanotis was Miss Kay McWilliams, Washington, the maid of honor and bride's only attendant.

Bruce Gilmour of Peoria, Ill., served Mr. Lippert as best man, and seating the guests were James Von Dane and Dennis Lippert.

The bride's gown of white Chantilly lace was designed in the colonial mode. A sabrina neckline and long sleeves accented the basque, and the full skirt of lace and tulle tiers was trimmed with clusters of lace roses. Her silk illusion veil was held by a coronet of crystal beading, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with a white orchid and stephanotis.

Mr. Lippert and his bride will make their home in Washington, Ill.

on a three-week business trip. He spent Friday-to-Monday in Lincoln as the guest of his mother, Mrs. Martha Herminghaus.

Mr. Herminghaus has a chain of bowling alleys through Europe, and also is beginning a chain of artificial-sno ski slopes. During his absence from home Mrs. Herminghaus (an Italian beauty) and their young son, John Marco, are with Mrs. Herminghaus' parents in Milan.

Did you know that during 1963 seventy-five thousand husbands were reported missing? According to a New York firm that specializes in finding missing people, the figure is an all time high.

The firm further states that the typical 'missing' husband fits the following general description:

Age: 44 to 51 years; occupation: salesman or semi-executive; education: two and a half years of college; personality, amiable and aggressive.

Plan April Weddings

An early spring bride-elect is Miss Constance Beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Beck, who has chosen Friday, April 3, as the date for her marriage to Russell James Mundorff.

For the wedding, which will take place at 8 o'clock in the evening at First-Plymouth Church, Miss Beck has named her sister-in-law, Mrs. Willard G. Beck, Jr., as her matron of honor.

Her bridesmatrons will be Mrs. James Graff and Mrs. Jon Rhine, and Miss Brenda Beck will attend her sister as bridesmaid. Miss Mary Jo Brehm and Miss Debbie Brehm will light the chancel candles, and the flower girl will be Miss Elizabeth Rhine.

James Graff will serve Mr. Mundorff as best man, and seating the guests will be Willard C. Beck, Jr., brother of the bride-elect, John Eggers and Kenny Chaleen.

In pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Beck, Mrs. Amelia Brehm will be a hostess at her home on Friday evening. The guests, who will include feminine members of the family, have been invited for an informal evening and will present a miscellaneous shower to the honoree.

Revealing plans this morning for a spring wedding is Miss Susann Heilman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Heilman, whose

COTNER TERRACE

There are gray skies one moment, and blue skies the next. The color of the sky, of course depends upon which hour of the day you see it. This serves to remind us that spring showers will be here all too soon.

For the average person, spring shower just means—hanging up a wet raincoat, but for the mothers of small children, the process is more involved.

There is the routine morning question, "Do you have your scarf, umbrella, golashes, raincoat, and covers for your books?" And there are the routine evening questions, "Where are your scarf, umbrella, golashes, raincoat, and why are your books wet?"

Luckily enough, even a pre-spring shower can not dampen the social life in suburbia, and there is not one puddle of despondency in Cotner Terrace this week.

Meeting at the home of Mrs. Ed Leikam Wednesday evening will be members of her pinocle eightsome, which includes Mrs. Arthur Vogel, Mrs. Jack Blunk, Mrs. Thomas Novak, Mrs. Albert Klein, Mrs. William Fagler, Mrs. Jeff Withrow, and Mrs. Francis Peters.

In addition to an evening of cards, the ladies will enjoy coffee and dessert served by Mrs. Leikam.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Larson and their children, Donna and Larry will be leaving Friday evening for a week-end trip to Kearney. They will be the guests of Mrs. Larson's mother, Mrs. Beulah Stangsberg and will also visit Mr. Larson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Larson of Axtell.

Mr. and Mrs. Larson and family plan to return home Sunday evening.

Weekend travels are not limited to one Cotner Terrace family, for Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne L. Stauffer and their sons, Tracy and Troy also plan a short trip.

They will leave Saturday for Culberston and the home of Mrs. Stauffer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cook, where they will attend a post-nuptial shower for Mrs. Stauffer's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cook, who were married Feb. 3.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maronde were Mrs. Maronde's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Treake, their son John, of Waco, and their daughter, Frances Mary Stewart, who is a senior at Nebraska Wesleyan.

Mr. and Mrs. Treake and their family were entertained at a Sunday dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Maronde at their home.

Mrs. Charles Leddy and Mrs. Frank Coffman were co-hostesses Friday evening when they entertained at a post-nuptial party at the home of Mrs. Leddy. The honoree for the miscellaneous shower was Mrs. John Heinmann, formerly Miss Vicky Weckman, and the guests included friends of Mrs. Heinmann.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ritenour and their two sons, Mark and Mike, drove to Western last Tuesday evening for the birthday of Rod Stewart, son of Mrs. Ritenour's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Stewart. Rod, who celebrated his first birthday, had the help of his brother and sister, Rex and Robin, in blowing out the one candle. Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Ritenour to Western were Mrs. Verena Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Stewart of Lincoln.

Honored By PTA

The Founders Day program of Riley PTA was held Tuesday evening when PTA life memberships were presented by the group to Mrs. Jerome Vance, Mrs. Donald Hanway, Mrs. Cyrus Jones, kindergarten teacher, and J. F. Dodds, principal.

The memberships, which provide scholarships for teachers college students, were awarded by Mrs. Harold Thompson, president of the Lincoln PTA Council, who was a guest at the program.

Guest speaker was Dr. James Reinhardt, and a highlight of the program was the presentation to the school of a book cart for the school library. The cart was purchased through the Fielder Memorial Fund, administered by the Riley PTA and to which residents of the community have contributed.

Men Enjoy Exercise

Josephine Lowman

It has always seemed to me that men like "gadgets" better than women do. The man in the family always enjoys his children's mechanical toys and is intrigued with special feature products. Therefore, I think they enjoy exercise more when they use weights or elastic exercisers or dumbbells.

Since men are interested in building muscles, they can use these to advantage. The following is a splendid exercise for the shoulders and arms. Stand erect. If you have an elastic exerciser use that. If not, get a fairly short, heavy elastic band and place it across the back of your shoulders, one end grasped in each hand, with your elbows bent, fingers touching the shoulders. Now inhale deeply as you straighten the arms and push them out sideward, shoulder height. Exhale as you return to starting position. Continue bending the elbows and pushing arms out sideward.

The following exercise is fun to do, for both men and women. It strengthens the lower abdominal wall. Lie on the floor on your back, legs straight and arms resting on the floor. Place a dumbbell across your ankles. With stiff knees lift your legs off the floor as far as you can without dislodging the dumbbell. Lower legs to the floor. With a little practice you can become quite expert at keeping the dumbbell on your legs. Do this slowly and carefully. Try to keep your back close to the floor.

This one will strengthen the muscles of the ankles and legs. Sit on a chair. Lift your left leg up in front of you. Place the elastic band beneath the toe of your left foot. Point your toe as you pull back with the band. Now point your toe toward your head. Again point the toe away from you and resist with the band. Continue.

The bidding:
East 1♠ South 2♠ West 2♠ North 3♠
Pass 2♠ Pass 3♠ Pass Pass 3♠ Dble.

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

This hand may appeal more to the purist than the everyday player, but it is a thing of beauty nevertheless. It was played in a tournament.

In the actual case, South got doubled at three spades and made the contract after West had cashed the Q-J of clubs and then shifted to a diamond. Declarer eventually lost a spade and another club and thus made his contract.

But if the defense had functioned perfectly, South would have gone down one. East had signaled with the eight of clubs on the opening lead of the queen, and West at this point should have known practically every card in declarer's hand.

South was marked by the bidding to be void of diamonds and East was similarly marked to have the A-K-8 or A-K-8-x of clubs, as well as the A-Q-x-x of diamonds.

This should have indicated to West the danger that the defense could collect no more than three clubs and a spade by normal play, and West should therefore have given thought to the possibility of obtaining a fifth trick elsewhere.

Had he led a heart at trick two, this goal could have been attained. Declarer could do no better than win the heart and force out the ace of spades. West would duck two rounds of spades and win the third one, in order to give East a count on the number of spades held by South. He would then lead the jack of clubs.

This long-delayed club play, and the steady refusal by West to lead a diamond, would alert East to declarer's void in diamonds and force East to overtake the jack with the king and cash the ace.

On the ace West would discard a heart, and a heart return now by East would permit West to ruff and thus score the setting trick.

Possibly West should not have doubled three spades, but, with correct defense, his judgment would have been vindicated.

Why Judge All Women By One?

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I beg to differ with your reply to that mail carrier's wife who thought some of the women on his route were after him. You said that most women were interested in their MAIL, not her MALE. Well, my son was a meter reader. He said he had to keep his eyes straight ahead every movement, being careful not even to look sideways at some of the women or he would have a hard time getting out of the house. (He was 24, six-foot-three, and very good looking.) One woman, who was old enough to be his mother, was so aggressive that he reported her to the front office. They sent a detective out there to question her, and she got her claws into the detective and almost broke up his home. Most service men can tell you it doesn't pay to be too friendly to the lady of the house.

METER READER'S MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: We have been married 12 years and have 3 children. We have plenty of beds so that each of us can sleep alone now. My husband complained that he was crowded, so I changed our double bed for twin beds. Now, every night the children argue over whose turn it is to sleep with Daddy. I try to force the "each to his own bed" rule, but my husband overrides my objections with the argument that he "doesn't mind." But the next morning he complains to me that the kids thrashed around and he couldn't get any rest. But the next night it's the same story. What's wrong with this picture?

ANNOUNCED: HIS sleepless nights are the least of what's wrong. Children should not get into the habit of sleeping with their parents.

DEAR ABBY: I've managed to live 47 years without writing anyone for advice, but something happened the other day that I would appreciate a comment on. A friend of mine dropped in unexpectedly, and I explained to her that I was expecting my son and his wife at any moment. I told her that I had never met my daughter-in-law, but my son said she was a shy little thing, and I thought it might be easier for her to meet her mother-in-law alone for the first time. My friend didn't take the hint. Rather, she said, "I would like to meet the girl—aren't you going to ask me to sit down?" I told her as nicely as I could that I thought it would be better if she came back the next afternoon for tea, and met her then. She left in a huff. How could I have handled a situation like that more tactfully?

CHATTER — in the — CORRIDOR

By DIANNE FAGER

Lincoln Northeast's Rocket team is off and running this weekend with two big battles. Friday night the Rockets challenged the Beatrix "Orangemen" in the Johnson Gymnasium at 8:00. The team's object was to squeeze the power out of the opponents, bringing home victory number one of the weekend. Saturday night the mighty Rocket team traveled to Fremont High School for LN's second out of town game and win. The boys defeated the "Tigers" in the usual Rocket style.

Sunday at 3:00 p.m. LN's choir and orchestra presented their annual vesper concert. The Choir had three baritone soloists, Gary Bishop, Jerry Irwin, and Chuck Turek in the song "My Country". The song depicted the establishment of the democratic government of our land. The orchestra played an extra-special song which was especially written for Lincoln Northeast.

Ortiz' Advisor Daly Blasts WBA

... SAYS WBA GROUP KILLING BOXING

Manila (AP)—The adviser to lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz and the Philippines' top boxing official fired twin salvos at the World Boxing Association Tuesday in reply to a blast from WBA President Ed Lassman.

Lassman has called an emergency meeting of the WBA in Miami Beach for Feb. 25 to consider suspending Ortiz as lightweight champion and to determine the status of the Philippine boxing commission, called the Games and Amusements Board.

He said Ortiz and his adviser, Bill Daly of Paterson, N.J., stalled on the posting of a forfeit bond for a defense of his title against the No. 1 challenger Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich. He also accused Justolino Montano, chairman of the Philippine board and WBA vice president for the Orient, of failing to cooperate with the world organization.

Daly said the threat was silly because Ortiz already has signed a contract to fight Lane in San Juan, Puerto Rico, April 4.

He charged harassment and said, "This gang in charge of the WBA is hurting boxing instead of stimulating it. There's no boxing left in America and they're trying to destroy it in the rest of the world."

Montano said it was not necessary for Ortiz to post a forfeit bond before his successful title defense here last Saturday night, as required by the WBA, because he had already signed to meet Lane.

Ortiz stopped Flash Elorde of Manila, world junior lightweight champion, in the 14th round. Ortiz fought Elorde despite the opposition of the WBA, which insisted that the Puerto Rican-born New Yorker take on Lane, rated as the No. 1 challenger.

The WBA gave its reluctant approval of the Ortiz-Elorde bout as a title fight when both promised that the winner would fight Lane next.

Montano accused the WBA of coddling Lane. He said

Not Surprising, Any Longer

Nebraska's basketball showings should not be coming as surprises to Husker fans any longer. Opposing Big Eight coaches no longer consider them as surprises.

Kansas State coach Tex Winter readily admitted Monday afternoon before his Wildcats met the Huskers at Manhattan that he was not taking the game lightly.

"After Nebraska beat Oklahoma State last week, several people down here wanted to get together and send a telegram thanking the Huskers," Winter remarked as he watched the NU squad work out for a few minutes Monday afternoon at the K-State Fieldhouse.

"But I told them they had better wait until after we played Nebraska again, because we might not feel like sending them a telegram then," he continued.

And Tex's fears were well-founded as the Huskers nearly proved Monday night, thanks to a supreme effort on the Scarlet and Cream's part.

As Tex looked back on three straight overtime wins on the road and Monday night's squeaker over Nebraska, he was reminded jokingly by a writer that Kansas State must be a tremendous home team since they won in regulation time Monday night and needed overtimes to win on the road.

"There would have been no overtime if that last shot had gone in," he noted. "It was a good shot, too." The Wildcat coach was speaking of an attempt by Daryl Petch with three seconds remaining that would have put Nebraska ahead, 50-49.

Key To Improvement

How can a team go from a 1-13 conference mark to be a contender in every game in one year's time is a question that has most Husker followers puzzled.

When the question was put to NU Athletic Director Tippy Dye, who brought Joe Cipriano to Lincoln to boss the Husker cagers, his reply was "defense."

"The biggest single thing would have to be that the team is playing good defense this year," Dye explained. "And they should be because Joe spends a lot of time teaching defense."

And the Husker athletic director is no fly-by-nighter on the subject of basketball, having coached championship teams himself at Ohio State and Washington after winning all-American honors in his playing days.

Dye was speaking about the defensive aspect while waiting for the Kansas State-Nebraska game to start and his words gained stature as the game progressed at the Wildcat Fieldhouse.

Defense was the key to the Huskers' near success in upsetting Kansas State. And particularly noteworthy was the defensive job turned in by Bob Antulov on K-State's Willie Murrell, the Big Eight's leading scorer.

Murrell was held scoreless the first half and recorded only 12 for the game, far below his 23-point average. Antulov dogged the Wildcat veteran except for brief moments of rest on the bench such as when he turned his ankle while guarding the 6-6 star.

"He faked me out so badly that I twisted my ankle," Antulov said in explaining the incident. "He's tough to guard and he really tires you out trying to keep up with him."

But it was performances such as Antulov's turned in by the entire Husker team that almost knocked off the Wildcats in Manhattan, a feat that hasn't been accomplished by an NU team since 1943.

The Huskers have been on the verge of many wins this year that have barely slipped away. But Cipriano and his cagers have never given up.

"It'll be different next year," the Husker coach said after the Kansas State game. And you knew he was speaking about more victories.

Sen. Long Joins Attack On Finley

Wants Owner Probed

... PLUS RECORDS

Washington (AP)—The question whether Charles O. Finley will be summoned before a congressional committee will be decided after his showdown meeting this week-end with other American League clubowners over his Kansas City franchise.

This was promised Tuesday by Chairman Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., of the Senate Antitrust subcommittee in response to a request by Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., that the controversial owner of the Athletics baseball club be subpoenaed, along with his records.

The subcommittee is considering a bill to extend to football, basketball and hockey the same exemptions from the antitrust laws baseball has enjoyed for many years.

Endorsers

Two witnesses who endorsed the measure at Tuesday's windup hearing on the proposal were president Joseph E. Cronin of the American League and president Warren Giles of the National League.

Giles said the bill is sound because the exemption from the anti-trust laws it would give to major sports is necessary to preserve competition on the field.

Hart said he had invited Finley to testify Tuesday, but his lawyer called to say he felt Finley should not accept in view of his prior date in Boston on Friday. The clubowners are expected to act on Finley's refusal to follow American League orders to sign a lease with Kansas City for rental of the Municipal Stadium.

Finley Agrees

In Chicago, Finley agreed that his attorney had informed Hart he would be unable to attend Tuesday's hearing. But Finley said he did not "consider it an invitation at all," but felt Hart had left the matter "to our initiative that we might be there."

Finley said he is "ready, available and willing to supply any records they want." He added that "regarding Sen. Long's blasts today and recent blasts, I do not wish to engage in personal feuds with any politician, especially those from Missouri."

The Missouri senator said there have been "stock manipulations." He did not specify what these were, but presumably Long referred to Finley's status as operator of an insurance business as well as owner of the ball club.

Harry Charters of Melba, Ida., still paces the nation's cowboys for the all-around championship.

Charters has won $7,072 in the dollar-a-point standings to lead defending champion Dean Oliver of Boise, Ida., by $873.

Former Olympic Champs Training For Final Bid

By A. E. PEDERSEN

Tampere, Finland (UPI)—A hole nearly six inches across, about 20 feet up the wall of the old frame barn, marks the spot where an iron ball emerged.

The barn is the makeshift gymnasium where world hammer throw champion Harold Connolly is getting ready for his last Olympics.

"The first iron net she hadn't strong enough," said Connolly, as he went into his windup.

The ball thudded into the net and fell to the barn floor with a resounding thud.

The burn was provided by the city of Tampere, where Harold has been teaching English classes for nearly two years. Every day Harold or his wife, Czechoslovakian-born Olga, can be seen here training. Olga Fikotova Connolly uses the net to catch her discus throws.

This will be the last Olympics for the couple who won their gold medals in Melbourne in 1956, fell in love and got married the following year.

Will Retire

"We're going to quit after Tokyo," said Harold, "That's definite. You've got to stop sometime."

Connolly won the event at Melbourne in 1956, but did poorly in Rome four years later. He holds the world record, however, with a throw of 231 feet, 10 inches, set nearly two years ago, shortly before he came to Finland.

Hardin Rewarded For Win Skein Over Army

... INKS NEW 5-YEAR PACT

Annapolis, Md. (AP)—Beating Army five straight times paid off Tuesday in a new contract, new duties, and almost certainly a salary increase for Navy's football coach, Wayne Hardin.

The Academy said Hardin, 36, signed a five-year contract which makes him both coach and special assistant to the assistant director of athletics.

There was no announcement of how much he will make under the new contract, but it is believed to be in the neighborhood of $19,000 a year.

Best Season

The contract signing followed one of the Academy's best seasons. The Midshipmen won nine of 10 regular season games — including that fifth straight over Army — and wound up second in the nation. This was followed by a 28-6 defeat at the hands of top-ranked Texas in the Cotton Bowl game New Year's Day.

"I'm very happy about the contract," Hardin said. "There's nothing much to say except that I'm pleased."

He said the new duties to assistant to E. E. (Rip) Miller would primarily involve recruiting. But he said he will be concerned with all sports, not just football.

Ray Thompson Named Week's Top Performer

By DON FORSYTHE

Prep Sports Writer

Because he usually has to give away two or three inches to his defensive man, Seward's Ray Thompson generally has to come up with a little extra effort in basketball.

He did just that against York last week to earn "player of the week" honors.

The 6-1 junior operates in the pivot area for the Bluejays and his 20-point performance helped Ralph Bowman's quintet to snap an eight-game York winning streak.

Thompson scored eight times from the field and converted 12 of 18 foul shots against the Dukes, including a pair of gift shots that broke a 63-63 tie and sent the Seward club ahead to stay as it won 68-63.

Thompson and the following performers will receive recognition for their top efforts last week:

Doug Plank, Franklin — Gave Flyers 74-72 win over Alma by stealing ball and scoring winning basket with 15 seconds remaining.

Carroll Dalsen, Oshkosh — Had 21 points, 23 rebounds and limited his foe to just eight points in a 69-62 win over Bayard.

Dennis Schneider, Auburn — Six footer had 20 points, 22 rebounds in win over Omaha Cathedral.

Charles Ulrich, Milligan — Tossed in 38 points to lead Roosters past Western, 77-63, in game that clinched tie for Cloverleaf Conference crown.

Nebraska Men's Bowling Tourney Starts Feb. 29

Grand Island (AP)—Only a few spots remained unfilled Tuesday for the Nebraska Men's State Bowling Tournament which runs for five weekends starting Feb. 29. The Easter weekend is excluded.

All bowling will be at the 32-lane Meves Bowl in Grand Island.

Thompson said all defending champions have signed up for the 1964 competition.

The scratch champions are: team, Capitol City Bowling, Omaha; doubles, Lloyd Atkins and Claudio Orsi, Omaha; singles, Don Billyue, Omaha; all-events, Merwyn Brown, Omaha.

Handicap champions are: team, Goodyear Hesse, Lincoln; doubles and singles, Brahmner and Merrill Strudloff, Wayne; singles, Aron Johnson, Lincoln.

Finley Agrees

In Chicago, Finley agreed that his attorney had informed Hart he would be unable to attend Tuesday's hearing. But Finley said he did not "consider it an invitation at all," but felt Hart had left the matter "to our initiative that we might be there."

Finley said he is "ready, available and willing to supply any records they want." He added that "regarding Sen. Long's blasts today and recent blasts, I do not wish to engage in personal feuds with any politician, especially those from Missouri."

The Missouri senator said there have been "stock manipulations." He did not specify what these were, but presumably Long referred to Finley's status as operator of an insurance business as well as owner of the ball club.

Hardin Rewarded For Win Skein Over Army

... INKS NEW 5-YEAR PACT

Annapolis, Md. (AP)—Beating Army five straight times paid off Tuesday in a new contract, new duties, and almost certainly a salary increase for Navy's football coach, Wayne Hardin.

The Academy said Hardin, 36, signed a five-year contract which makes him both coach and special assistant to the assistant director of athletics.

There was no announcement of how much he will make under the new contract, but it is believed to be in the neighborhood of $19,000 a year.

Best Season

The contract signing followed one of the Academy's best seasons. The Midshipmen won nine of 10 regular season games — including that fifth straight over Army — and wound up second in the nation. This was followed by a 28-6 defeat at the hands of top-ranked Texas in the Cotton Bowl game New Year's Day.

"I'm very happy about the contract," Hardin said. "There's nothing much to say except that I'm pleased."

He said the new duties to assistant to E. E. (Rip) Miller would primarily involve recruiting. But he said he will be concerned with all sports, not just football.

Erdelatz unexpectedly resigned. His teams have won 35 games, lost 14 and tied one.

Hardin has never had a losing season, but it took final-game victories over Army in 1959 and 1962 to stay at the 500 mark or better.

Ray Thompson Named Week's Top Performer

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Because he usually has to give away two or three inches to his defensive man, Seward's Ray Thompson generally has to come up with a little extra effort in basketball.

He did just that against York last week to earn "player of the week" honors.

The 6-1 junior operates in the pivot area for the Bluejays and his 28-point performance helped Ralph Bowman's quintet to snap an eight-game York winning streak.

Thompson scored eight times from the field and converted 12 of 18 foul shots against the Dukes, including a pair of gift shots that broke a 63-63 tie and sent the Seward club ahead to stay as it won 68-63.

Thompson and the following performers will receive recognition for their top efforts last week:

Doug Plank, Franklin — Gave Flyers 74-72 win over Alma by stealing ball and scoring winning basket with 15 seconds remaining.
Carroll Dolson, Oshkosh — Had 21 points, 23 rebounds and limited his foe to just eight points in a 69-62 win over Bayard.

Dennis Schneider, Auburn — Six footer had 20 points, 22 rebounds in win over Omaha Cathedral.

Charles Uldrich, Milligan — Tossed in 38 points to lead Roosters past Western, 77-63, in game that clinched tie for Cloverleaf Conference crown.

Larry Tiedje, Arapahoe — Scored 22 points in the last half to help mates overcome nine point deficit and stop Bartley, 66-62.

Leonard Canarsky, Oakland — Tallied 28 points as Oakland ripped Lyons in Cornhusker Conference tourney.

Bernie Kluthe, Elgin St. Boniface — Named most valuable player in Cedar Valley Conference tourney for efforts in leading St. Boniface to title.

Garry Schacht, Falls City — Had 21 rebounds, 21 points in win over Pawnee City.

Dale Von Seggern, Orchard — A 24-point performance against Niobrara helped Orioles grab 20th win of season.

Lloyd Polivka, David City — Sparked win over University High with scoring, rebounding.

Nebraska Men's Bowling Tourney Starts Feb. 29

Grand Island (AP)—Only a few spots remained unfilled Tuesday for the Nebraska Men's State Bowling Tournament which runs for five weekends starting Feb. 29. The Easter weekend is excluded.

State tournament director Cliff Thompson said the entry list for the annual event already has topped 400 and when the remaining Saturday night and late Sunday night spots are filled the list is expected to run about 450. The entry deadline has been extended to March 13.

All bowling will be at the 32-lane Meves Bowl in Grand Island.

Thompson said all defending champions have signed up for the 1964 competition.

The scratch champions are: team, Capitol City Bowling, Omaha; doubles, Lloyd Atkins and Claudio Orsi, Omaha; singles, Don Bilyeu, Omaha; all-events, Merwyn Brown, Omaha.

Handicap champions are: team, Goodyear Hose, Lincoln; doubles and singles, Brahmer and Merrill Struthoff, Wayne; singles, Aron Johnson, Lincoln.

Not Surprising, Any Longer

Nebraska's basketball showings should not be coming as surprises to Husker fans any longer. Opposing Big Eight coaches no longer consider them as surprises.

Kansas State coach Tex Winter readily admitted Monday afternoon before his Wildcats met the Huskers at Manhattan that he was not taking the game lightly.

"After Nebraska beat Oklahoma State last week, several people down here wanted to get together and send a telegram thanking the Huskers," Winter remarked as he watched the NU squad work out for a few minutes Monday afternoon at the K-State Fieldhouse.

"But I told them they had better wait until after we played Nebraska again, because we might not feel like sending them a telegram then," he continued.

And Tex's fears were well-founded as the Huskers nearly proved Monday night, thanks to a supreme effort on the Scarlet and Cream's part.

As Tex looked back on three straight overtime wins on the road and Monday night's squeaker over Nebraska, he was reminded jokingly by a writer that Kansas State must be a tremendous home team since they won in regulation time Monday night and needed overtimes to win on the road.

"There would have been no overtime if that last shot had gone in," he noted. "It was a good shot, too." The Wildcat coach was speaking of an attempt by Daryl Petch with three seconds remaining that would have put Nebraska ahead, 50-49.

Key To Improvement

How can a team go from a 1-13 conference mark to be a contender in every game in one year's time is a question that has most Husker followers puzzled.

When the question was put to NU Athletic Director Tippy Dye, who brought Joe Cipriano to Lincoln to boss the Husker cagers, his reply was "defense."

"The biggest single thing would have to be that the team is playing good defense this year," Dye explained. "And they should be because Joe spends a lot of time teaching defense."

And the Husker athletic director is no fly-by-nighter on the subject of basketball, having coached championship teams himself at Ohio State and Washington after winning all-American honors in his playing days.

Dye was speaking about the defensive aspect while waiting for the Kansas State-Nebraska game to start and his words gained stature as the game progressed at the Wildcat Fieldhouse.

Defense was the key to the Huskers' near success in upsetting Kansas State. And particularly noteworthy was the defensive job turned in by Bob Antulov on K-State's Willie Murrell, the Big Eight's leading scorer.

Murrell was held scoreless the first half and recorded only 12 for the game, far below his 23-point average. Antulov dogged the Wildcat veteran except for brief moments of rest on the bench such as when he turned his ankle while guarding the 6-6 star.

"He faked me out so badly that I twisted my ankle," Antulov said in explaining the incident. "He's tough to guard and he really tires you out trying to keep up with him."

But it was performances such as Antulov's turned in by the entire Husker team that almost knocked off the Wildcats in Manhattan, a feat that hasn't been accomplished by an NU team since 1943.

The Huskers have been on the verge of many wins this year that have barely slipped away. But Cipriano and his cagers have never given up.

"It'll be different next year," the Husker coach said after the Kansas State game. "And you knew he was speaking about more victories."

Hutch Cleared To Join Reds

... TUMOR TREATMENTS DONE

Seattle (AP)—The series of treatments for a tumor mass in Fred Hutchinson's upper chest has been completed, and the manager of the Cincinnati Reds is free to join his baseball team in Florida for spring training.

A spokesman at the Tumor Institute of Swedish Hospital here said the institute wants to make a final examination of Hutchinson and take an X ray of the affected area the day before Hutchinson leaves for Florida.

Hutchinson said he plans to leave Friday or Saturday to join his team. The Reds are scheduled to open camp next week in Tampa, Fla.

The institute spokesman said the hospital will keep Hutchinson's condition under observation and order periodic examinations.

His progress is very encouraging, but there still is a deformity in the affected area, the spokesman said.

Hutchinson, who grew up in Seattle, came here in late December for treatment. Throughout his stay he has planned, with the approval of his doctors, to continue as manager of the Reds.

He was not confined to the institute but he reported there regularly for treatment.

Sonny Sees KO In Three Rounds

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP)—Sonny Liston, who defends his heavyweight boxing title here next Tuesday night, predicted Tuesday that he would knock out Cassius Clay in three rounds.

Liston said he had not mentioned a fifth round knockout.

That was "manager's talk," he said. "I'd say within three rounds."

The champion also said he had no objection to weighing in with Clay and that this was "the manager's doings."

"I don't hate Clay," Liston added. "He means a lot to me. He's my 'million dollar baby.'"

Liston, who weighed 222 pounds, sparred three rounds and his handlers noted he had worked out 91 rounds at his home in Denver, in Las Vegas, Nev., and Miami Beach, "the equivalent to 91 championship fights."

His progress is very encouraging, but there still is a deformity in the affected area, the spokesman said.

Buick Tourney Sponsors Plan Television Blackout

... AT ODDS WITH PGA

Flint, Mich. (AP)—A disagreement over television rights will result in a TV blackout of next summer's Buick Open Golf Tournament, a Buick spokesman said Tuesday.

The tournament will go on as scheduled June 11-14 at nearby Warwick Hills, but the spokesman said it will not be televised because of differences with the PGA over TV rights.

The spokesman said it was his understanding the PGA wanted a 20 per cent cut of the TV proceeds. In the case of the Buick tournament, he said, this would amount to about $11,000 of the total tab of $55,000.

"We don't want to enter into that hassle," he added.

The problem of ownership of TV rights to PGA tournaments first came up earlier this month when golfers threatened a boycott of the Phoenix

Open unless given the rights which had already been sold by the sponsors of the tournament to Sports Network.

A compromise was reached and the tournament went on. But Larry Crosby, director of the Bing Crosby Open, kept the dispute boiling when he accused the PGA of making "outrageous demands" by asking 75 per cent of all television money on tournament sponsored events.

"This is worse than the Capone mob moving in," Crosby said and he added that the Crosby tournament might be cancelled in 1965.

MENACING POSE . . . floors Beatles.

Shaggy Ones Visit Cassius

... FIGHT FANS UNMOVED

Miami Beach (AP)—The Beatles, the mop-haired British rock 'n' roll quartet, visited the training quarters of fellow entertainer Cassius Clay Tuesday but the atmosphere was no more zany than usual.

A few bored fight characters glanced up briefly when the Beatles walked into the shabby Fifth Street Gym and a handful of paying customers, who had come to see "The Greatest" work out, showed passing interest.

The only real excitement was displayed by a mob of U.S. and British photographers and three small girls who got into the place somehow and squealed dutifully.

"Where's Cassius?" the

Told that he had not arrived, George Harrison of the Beatles said, "Well, let's go then."

"Where's the Beatles?" asked Cassius when he strolled in 10 minutes later, one-half hour behind schedule.

Clay was taken into a dressing room where the Beatles had fled to escape the heat and the crowding photographers. When they came out a few minutes later, Clay said he was so pleased about the visit that he would compose a poem on the spot.

"When Sonny Liston picks up the papers and sees

"That the Beatles came to see me,

"He will become so angry that,

"I will knock him out in three."

Clay and the small, slightly-built Beatles climbed into the ring, and chatted for a while, but the conversation was drowned out by Willie Pastrano the light heavyweight champion who was pounding the light bag near by.

The Beatles were asked who they favored in the Feb. 25 fight between Clay and Liston. Their replies were:

John Lennon: "Louis Armstrong." When nobody laughed at that, he added, "no one more than the other."

Ringo Starr: "What do you say? I don't want to get out of here with a broken nose."

George Harrison: "I don't know and I don't care, really."

Herman Continues As Class Of 'D'

... NARROW WIN COSTS ALVO-EAGLE

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Herman, which hasn't been extended in 16 starts, continues to set the pace in the Class D Nebraska Prep Ratings.

boasting a perfect 17-0 record.

Climbing up to the No. 4 spot this week is another unbeaten squad, Hordville. The Bulldogs have displayed depth in their recent starts, having to operate without pivot ace Ron Jensen, who has been sidelined by the mumps.

Beaver Crossing, a five-point victim of Hordville at Hordville, follows the Bulldogs up to the first division. The Beavers have chalked up 15 wins.

Losing ground this week is Alvo-Eagle, which escaped with a one-point decision over Ceresco, a team which Beaver Crossing stopped by 18.

Seventh-ranked Elgin St. Boniface (17-0) and tenth-ranked Stapleton are other undefeated teams in the top ten. Stapleton makes its first appearance on the chart, taking advantage of Bartley's loss at the hands of Arapahoe.

Harrisburg added to its prestige by pressing Class B Bridgeport before losing, 68-64. Bridgeport (15-3) was in the Class B top ten for five weeks before falling.

Defending state champion De Witt, Orchard and Bartley are the leading challengers for berths in the top ten.

USLTA WON'T SUSPEND AUSSIES

New York (AP)—The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association said Tuesday it would not suspend Australian stars Roy Emerson and Ken Fletcher.

Emerson, Australian Champion and No. 1 Davis Cup ace, and Fletcher, have ignored an Australian ban against playing overseas before March 31 and are scheduled to compete in the National Indoor Championships opening Wednesday in Salisbury, Md.

"The USLTA is cooperating fully but must obey the rules which provide that a player who is in good standing in his own country shall be permitted to play," said Bryan Field, public relations chairman of the USLTA.

"The Australians are in good standing and it would be unjust for the United States to suspend them for no cause," Field said. "We regret the incident has arisen, but it is a domestic Australian problem, not an international problem."

The USLTA was accused by Norman Strange, president of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia, of "aiding and abetting Australian players who are deliberately flouting LTAA rules."

Madison Square Garden Organizes Own TV Network

New York (AP)—Madison Square Garden said Tuesday it had organized its own television network for the showing of a weekly boxing bout. The current Friday night series on ABC will be dropped on Sept. 11 and the new Garden network will come into being on Sept. 14.

The Garden said the shows would be telecast either Monday or Friday night, depending upon the time available. The Gillette company is planning to continue the sponsorship, the Garden said.

ABC recently announced that it was dropping the weekly boxing shows because of a lack of interest. Neither CBS nor NBC expressed interest in taking on the show.

Shaggy Ones Visit Cassius

... FIGHT FANS UNMOVED

Miami Beach (AP)—The Beatles, the mop-haired British rock 'n' roll quartet, visited the training quarters of fellow entertainer Cassius Clay Tuesday but the atmosphere was no more zany than usual.

A few bored fight characters glanced up briefly when the Beatles walked into the shabby Fifth Street Gym and a handful of paying customers, who had come to see "The Greatest" work out, showed passing interest.

The only real excitement was displayed by a mob of U.S. and British photographers and three small girls who got into the place somehow and squealed dutifully.

"Where's Cassius?" the

Beatles chorused when they walked in.

Told that he had not arrived, George Harrison of the Beatles said, "Well, let's go then."

"Where's the Beatles?" asked Cassius when he strolled in 10 minutes later, one-half hour behind schedule.

Clay was taken into a dressing room where the Beatles had fled to escape the heat and the crowding photographers. When they came out a few minutes later, Clay said he was so pleased about the visit that he would compose a poem on the spot.

"When Sonny Liston picks up the papers and sees

"That the Beatles came to see me,

"He will become so angry that,

"I will knock him out in three."

Clay and the small, slightly-built Beatles climbed into the ring, and chatted for a while, but the conversation was drowned out by Willie Pastrano the light heavyweight champion who was pounding the light bag near by.

The Beatles were asked who they favored in the Feb. 25 fight between Clay and Liston. Their replies were:

John Lennon: "Louis Armstrong." When nobody laughed at that, he added, "no one more than the other."

Ringo Starr: "What do you say? I don't want to get out of here with a broken nose."

George Harrison: "I don't know and I don't care, really."

Young Sinatra Going Abroad

... STIRS CONTROVERSY

Attorney Morris Lavine, counsel for defendant Joseph Amsler, interrupted cross-examination of a Nevada police officer to say:

"I have just got information that Frank Sinatra Jr. is on his way to London and it has been verified by government counsel.

"This is not in the spirit of your honor's order to Mr. Sinatra that he make himself available to this court until the conclusion of the government's case.

'Available'

"I demand that Frank Sinatra Jr. be in the court Wednesday morning for cross-examination while these police officers are available for purposes of identification."

Judge William G. East replied: "Mr. Lavine, I treat your statement with intellectual dishonesty."

Lavine shouted angrily: "Your honor, I resent that."

Others continued: "Other witnesses, who are still on call have returned to their businesses. As far as this court is concerned, Mr. Sinatra is on government call, and your request is denied."

The jurist added in stern tones: "Mr. Lavine, I can put a stop to your show."

Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas R. Sheridan said: "Mr. Sinatra will be brought into the courtroom whenever a proper motion is filed. No such motion was made by defense counsel. I have many government witnesses yet to call."

Called to recess... The judge then called a recess. The jury had been excused before the argument started.

Commissioners Settle Street Names Problem

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday passed resolutions adopting the names for the Havelock-Superior St. route which have been in controversy for sometime.

That portion of the street between 56th west to the end of the line will be known as Superior; from 56th east, the street will remain Havelock Ave.

A one-quarter mile strip relocated by the Interstate access between 10th and First, formerly Superior, will be known as Ogden Road on the recommendation of the City-County Planning Commission.

Featured speaker was regional chairman Gene Altman, who spoke on "Inspired Leadership in Camping."

Mrs. Plum said the ACA is a "membership organization of agency and private camps whose purpose is the promotion of better camping for all."

Elected secretary-treasurer was Mrs. William Tarter of Omaha. Mrs. Dorothea Stahl of 2125 B, continued as vice president.

The organization's national convention will be this March in Pittsburgh. Over 3,000 delegates from every state are expected to attend.

Tires Slashed

DORFMAN SAYS HE NEVER TRIED TO FIX HOFFA TRIAL

Chattanooga, Tenn. (AP)—Allen Dorfman, Chicago insurance broker whose income is geared to Teamster Union business, testified Tuesday he never tried to fix James Hoffa's conspiracy trial jury in 1962.

Dorfman joined Nicholas J. Tweel, a Huntington, W. Va., businessman, in disputing testimony of Edward G. Partin, a Baton Rouge, La., teamster official, Partin was the chief government witness against Hoffa, Dorfman, Tweel and three others on trial on jury-tampering charges.

Dorfman, the second of those on trial to testify, said the Teamsters business increased his income "maybe five times." He took the stand after the defense won a new chance to try to throw out Partin's entire testimony—the cornerstone of the government case—on grounds it was built on an illegal foundation.

Granted Hearing

U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson granted a hearing to determine whether Partin acted illegally by recording two telephone conversations with Hoffa just prior to the 1962 trial in Nashville. He scheduled the hearing after testimony is completed in the current case—but before the jury begins deliberating.

The calls in question resulted in Hoffa's inviting Partin to Nashville during the 1962 trial, during which Partin said he had Hoffa's confidence—and also made daily reports to the Justice Department.

Partin's testimony at this trial—which linked Hoffa, Dorfman, Tweel and others on trial with efforts to rig the Nashville jury—was based on his presence in Nashville for the conspiracy trial.

Illegally Based

The defense contends that Partin's whole testimony was illegally based because of the recorded telephone calls, which were made without Hoffa's consent. The government claims Hoffa's consent was not needed because Partin originated the calls.

During the afternoon, William Daniels, an investigator for the state District Attorney's office at Baton Rouge, testified that he supervised the recordings—at a Baton Rouge motel.

"Did the federal government have anything to do with this?" chief prosecutor James Neal asked.

"No, sir," said Daniels.

"No, sir," said Daniels. He said the tape recordings had been turned over to the Justice Department. The calls he said, were paid for by Teamsters Local No. 5 at Baton Rouge, of which Partin is business manager.

Partin had testified Tweel once told him Dorfman had asked Tweel to devise a method to "get to the jury." The government accused Dorfman and Tweel of arranging to supply the 1962 jurors names to Dallas Hall, a Nashville bartender, who testified he received such a jury list from Tweel.

Tweel denied the entire accusation Monday, and said his dealings with Dorfman were strictly business—chiefly regarding financing of a proposed new insurance firm.

Dorfman said virtually the same thing Tuesday.

Break-In Attempted

Nathan E. Bernstein, owner of the Serevall Super Market, 3308 A, reported to police Tuesday that an attempt was made to break into the store. Bernstein said the store was not entered.

Dillon Supports New Construction Plan By Citing Costs Of Upkeep

By GERRY SWITZER Star Staff Writer

Some 25 persons turned out Tuesday for the public hearing on Lancaster County Engineer Hugh Dillon's record $1,432,833 proposed road program for 1964.

In outlining his program Dillon supported his $126,300 proposal for new construction by pointing out that it is a "losing proposition" to continue to expend two-thirds or three-fourths of the road budget for maintenance.

He noted the progress which had been made over the years, pointing out that in 1933 the county had about 220 miles of gravel road and 9.1 miles of paving, while in 1963, the county had a total of 1,140 miles of gravel road, and 81.27 miles of paving.

The proposed program also includes expenditures of $478,633 for maintenance; $451,000 for labor and supervision, and $76,900 for new equipment.

Between five and six miles of paving at a total cost of $154,000 is included, and eight new bridges are proposed at a total cost of $142,300.

Several persons appeared requesting additions in the 1964 program.

Lincoln attorney Lawrence Murphy, representing residents in the area north of Cornhusker Highway in the vicinity of No. 40th and 44th, urged that the Board of Commissioners consider surfacing of No. 40th Street.

Serves Many People

He noted that it serves many people and is an access between Cornhusker and Superior.

Dillon estimated the cost of the project to be $37,500.

Fred Morgan of the Martell State Bank requested that the board consider paving two blocks in addition to the one mile proposed from Martell east to the Sprague spur.

He said that the additional two blocks would serve the bank and a store in the village.

ing the streets and highways committee of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, told the commissioners that the chamber feels the county is putting less emphasis on the 1964 road program than was put on the 1963 program in terms of levy and total dollars.

Levy Increase Asked

"We recommend that the County Board accelerate its program... and that the levy be increased not less than one mill for the sole purpose of building additional highways in the county."

He pointed to the City of Lincoln increasing the wheel tax 50% and the state raising the motor vehicle license fee, and added, "It is inconsistent that the county board carries a political feeling to hold the mill levy at 4.5 regardless of needs."

"It is illogical for the county board to be reducing the mill levy in face of the action being taken by the other governmental levels," he said.

He urged surfacing 84th as a connection from the Interstate to the east part of the city.

"There is a strong need for paving Superior because of the easy access into Lincoln," he added.

Young Sinatra Going Abroad

... STIRS CONTROVERSY

Los Angeles (AP) — Frank Sinatra Jr. left unexpectedly for London Tuesday, triggering a heated argument between the judge and a defense attorney at the trial of three men accused of kidnapping the young singer.

Attorney Morris Lavine, counsel for defendant Joseph Amsler, interrupted cross-examination of a Nevada police officer to say:

"I have just got information that Frank Sinatra Jr. is on his way to London and it has been verified by government counsel.

"This is not in the spirit of your honor's order to Mr. Sinatra that he make himself available to this court until the conclusion of the government's case.

'Available'

"I demand that Frank Sinatra Jr be in the court Wednesday morning for cross-examination while these police officers are available for purposes of identification."

Judge William G. East replied:

"Mr. Lavine, I treat your statement with intellectual dishonesty."

Others

The judge continued: "Other witnesses, who are still on call have returned to their businesses. As far as this court is concerned, Mr. Sinatra is on government call, and your request is denied."

The jurist added in stern tones:

"Mr. Lavine, I can put a stop to your show."

Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas R. Sheridan said: "Mr. Sinatra will be brought into the courtroom whenever a proper motion is filed. No such motion was made by defense counsel. I have many government witnesses yet to call."

Called Recess

The judge then called a recess. The jury had been excused before the argument started.

Commissioners Settle Street Names Problem

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday passed resolutions adopting the names for the Havelock-Superior St. route which have been in controversy for sometime.

That portion of the street between 56th west to the end of the line will be known as Superior; from 56th east, the street will remain Havelock Ave.

A one-quarter mile strip relocated by the Interstate access between 10th and First, formerly Superior, will be known as Ogden Road on the recommendation of the City-County Planning Commission.

Campers Re-Elect Mrs. R. E. Plum At Annual Meet

Mrs. Robert E. Plum, 2719 A, was re-elected president of the Nebraska Section of the American Camping Association at the group's 25th annual meeting at the Hotel Lincoln Tuesday night.

Featured speaker was regional chairman Gene Altman, who spoke on "Inspired Leadership in Camping."

Mrs. Plum said the ACA is a "membership organization of agency and private camps whose purpose is the promotion of better camping for all."

Elected secretary-treasurer was Mrs. William Tarter of Omaha. Mrs. Dorothea Stahn of 2125 B, continued as vice president.

The organization's national convention will be this March in Pittsburgh. Over 3,000 delegates from every state are expected to attend.

Tires Slashed

Charles A. Teenson of 5235 Knox reported to police that both front tires of his car were cut. Teenson estimated the value of the tires at $20.

Ruling For Omaha Pastors Upheld

Omaha (AP)—District Judge James O'Brien Tuesday upheld the Municipal Court fines of $1 and costs each, assessed two Omaha civil rights leaders, the Revs. Rudolph McNair and Kelsey Jones.

The two Negro clergymen were charged with disturbing a meeting of the Omaha City Council last Oct. 22 when they led a demonstration in support of a proposed open occupancy housing ordinance.

They appealed their conviction in Municipal Court and the District Court upheld the lower court finding. Their motion for a new trial was overruled Feb. 14.

Defense attorney Thomas Carey indicated he would appeal the case to the Nebraska Supreme Court. Appeal bonds were set at $500 each.

HIGH WIRE ACT

This bus, after colliding with an automobile Tuesday in Portsmouth, Va., swerved, climbed a power pole guy wire and wound up with only its extreme rear end touching the ground. Passengers, unhurt, departed through a rear door.

DORFMAN SAYS HE NEVER TRIED TO FIX HOFFA TRIAL

Chattanooga, Tenn. (AP)—Allen Dorfman, Chicago insurance broker whose income is geared to Teamster Union business, testified Tuesday he never tried to fix James Hoffa's conspiracy trial jury in 1962.

Dorfman joined Nicholas J. Tweel, a Huntington, W. Va., businessman, in disputing testimony of Edward G. Partin, a Baton Rouge, La., teamster official. Partin was the chief government witness against Hoffa, Dorfman, Tweel and three others on trial on jury-tampering charges.

Dorfman, the second of those on trial to testify, said the Teamsters business increased his income "maybe five times." He took the stand after the defense won a new chance to try to throw out Partin's entire testimony—the cornerstone of the government case—on grounds it was built on an illegal foundation.

Granted Hearing

U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson granted a hearing to determine whether Partin acted illegally by recording two telephone conversations with Hoffa just prior to the 1962 trial in Nashville. He scheduled the hearing after testimony is completed in the current case—but before the jury begins deliberating.

The calls in question resulted in Hoffa's inviting Partin to Nashville during the 1962 trial, during which Partin said he had Hoffa's confidence—and also made daily reports to the Justice Department.

Partin's testimony at this trial—which linked Hoffa, Dorfman, Tweel and others on trial with efforts to rig the Nashville jury—was based on his presence in Nashville for the conspiracy trial.

Illegally Based
The defense contends that Partin's whole testimony was illegally based because of the recorded telephone calls, which were made without Hoffa's consent. The government claims Hoffa's consent was not needed because Partin originated the calls.

During the afternoon, William Daniels, an investigator for the state District Attorney's office at Baton Rouge, testified that he supervised the recordings—at a Baton Rouge motel.

"Did the federal government have anything to do with this?" chief prosecutor James Neal asked.

"No, Sir"

"No, sir," said Daniels. He said the tape recordings had been turned over to the Justice Department. The calls he said, were paid for by Teamsters Local No. 5 at Baton Rouge, of which Partin is business manager.

Partin had testified Tweel once told him Dorfman had asked Tweel to devise a method to "get to the jury." The government accused Dorfman and Tweel of arranging to supply the 1962 jurors names to Dallas Hall, a Nashville bartender, who testified he received such a jury list from Tweel.

Tweel denied the entire accusation Monday, and said his dealings with Dorfman were strictly business—chiefly regarding financing of a proposed new insurance firm.

Dorfman said virtually the same thing Tuesday.

Break-In Attempted

Nathan E. Bernstein, owner of the Serveall Super Market, 3308 A, reported to police Tuesday that an attempt was made to break into the store. Bernstein said the store was not entered.

need for a long-range program of paving the roads connecting the villages of the county with Lincoln, the roads to the various recreational areas and to the urban fringes of the county.

Several rural residents, represented by Frank Jacoby, expressed interest in an 84th bypass in the immediate future.

Referring to the proposed bridge to be located about one mile north and one mile west of Emerald, several Emerald farmers, represented by attorney Homer Kyle, protested the size of the concrete box proposed.

They contended that anything as small as 12 by 12 feet would not be practical and would result in the farmers' losing their entire crops from the water overflow.

Boeing 727 Spends Day Here For Crews' Familiarization

Piston engine aircraft will soon be a thing of the past for most airlines as such new vehicles as United Air Lines' (UAL) new Boeing 727 jet mainliner take over command.

The new $185 million jet spent a day in Lincoln to permit crews here the opportunity of becoming familiar with it. While no regular jet stops are made at Lincoln, United does use the Municipal Airport as an alternate weather stop for Omaha.

There are no current plans to service Lincoln with regular jet service because passenger loadings still do not warrant it, according to Donald Cannale, UAL regional publicist from Denver.

United will have 40 of the new 727's, constituting about one-sixth of its total fleet. Some 30 to 35 piston driven planes still remain in United service.

The piston driven crafts are hard to replace, explained Cannale, because record high passenger loadings demand a large fleet. Passenger loadings are going up, he said, due to improved rates, an improved over-all national economy and the accelerated pace of business and general living.

The new 727 is billed as a short range jet. It has a cruise

Death Claims Dr. Davis, 75

Omaha (U)—Dr. Edwin Davis
Sr., 75, of Omaha died Monday night in an Omaha hospital.

He was a noted urologist and surgeon as well as an ardent sportsman.

Dr. Davis was credited with helping discover mercuriochrome. He worked with Dr.
Edwin C. White at Johns Hopkins researching for a urinary antiseptic. Dr. White completed the mercuriochrome development after Dr. Davis entered service during World War I.

The urinary antiseptic was not found, but the antiseptic turned out to be good for minor skin injuries and is now a medicine chest mainstay.

Dr. Davis testified, as an expert on the Johns Hopkins staff, against Dr. John R.
Brinkley's "goat gland" rejuvenation treatment which was the subject of radio commercials in the 1930s. The testimony helped convince federal authorities the "goat gland" claims were false.

His wife said that in accordance with the wishes of Dr. Davis there would be no services. Other survivors include a daughter and two sons, both physicians, two brothers and a sister.

Women Urged To Assume Greater Duties In Church

Wichita, Kan. (U)—Methodist women were urged Tuesday to assume greater responsibility in the church.

Mrs. A. R. Marquardt of Lincoln, Neb., made the recommendation at the Women's Society of Christian Service's south central jurisdictional meeting in Wichita. Mrs. Marquardt is president of the south central jurisdiction.

Reviewing women's accomplishments in recent years,
Mrs. Marquardt said membership in women's divisions of the church has nearly doubled. Budgets for the jurisdiction have risen from about $2 million in 1940 to nearly $12 million expected by 1966.

Death Claims Dr. Davis, 75

Omaha (AP) — Dr. Edwin Davis Sr., 75, of Omaha died Monday night in an Omaha hospital.

He was a noted urologist and surgeon as well as an ardent sportsman.

Dr. Davis was credited with helping discover mercurochrome. He worked with Dr. Edwin C. White at Johns Hopkins researching for a urinary antiseptic. Dr. White completed the mercurochrome development after Dr. Davis entered service during World War I.

The urinary antiseptic was not found, but the antiseptic turned out to be good for minor skin injuries and is now a medicine chest mainstay.

Dr. Davis testified, as an expert on the Johns Hopkins staff, against Dr. John R. Brinkley's "goat gland" rejuvenation treatment which was the subject of radio commercials in the 1930s. The testimony helped convince federal authorities the "goat gland" claims were false.

His wife said that in accordance with the wishes of Dr. Davis there would be no services. Other survivors include a daughter and two sons, both physicians, two brothers and a sister.

Women Urged To Assume Greater Duties In Church

Wichita, Kan. (AP) — Methodist women were urged Tuesday to assume greater responsibility in the church.

Mrs. A. R. Marquardt of Lincoln, Neb., made the recommendation at the Women's Society of Christian Service's south central jurisdictional meeting in Wichita. Mrs. Marquardt is president of the south central jurisdiction.

Reviewing women's accomplishments in recent years, Mrs. Marquardt said membership in women's divisions of the church has nearly doubled. Budgets for the jurisdiction have risen from about $3 million in 1940 to nearly $12 million expected by 1966.

Alliance Driver Fatally Injured

Alliance (AP) — LaVern Flood, 31, of Alliance died in an Alliance hospital late Monday as the result of injuries received in an auto accident south of Alliance an hour earlier.

Sheriff Fred Marsh said Flood lost control of his car which went off the left side of the road, then veered into the right hand ditch. Flood was thrown out.

It was Nebraska's 44th traffic death of the year compared with 37 on the same date a year ago.

Boeing 727 Spends Day Here For Crews' Familiarization

Piston engine aircraft will soon be a thing of the past for most airlines as such new vehicles as United Air Lines' (UAL) new Boeing 727 jet mainliner take over command.

The new $185 million jet spent a day in Lincoln to permit crews here the opportunity of becoming familiar with it. While no regular jet stops are made at Lincoln, United does use the Municipal Airport as an alternate weather stop for Omaha.

There are no current plans to service Lincoln with regular jet service because passenger boardings still do not warrant it, according to Donald Cannalte, UAL regional publicist from Denver. United will have 40 of the new 727's, constituting about one-sixth of its total fleet. Some 30 to 35 piston driven planes still remain in United service.

Hard To Replace The piston driven crafts are hard to replace, explained Cannalte, because record high passenger loadings demand a large fleet. Passenger loadings are going up, he said, due to improved rates, an improved over-all national economy and the accelerated pace of business and general living.

The new 727 is billed as a short range jet. It has a cru-ing speed of 550 to 600 miles per hour and one-class passenger capacity of 90.

Some of its advantages over the other planes are its ability to land on 5,000 foot runways and less, its economy of operation, its easy maintenance and its quiet operation.

Mrs. Williams Ex-Lincolnite, Dies In Oregon

Mrs. B. F. (Marie) Williams, 87, of Salem, Ore., formerly of Lincoln, died Friday in Salem.

Mrs. Williams was born in Iowa. She moved to Lincoln in 1906 and was active in civic affairs during the 33 years she was a Lincolnite resident.

She was a state president of Chapter K & DM, of the PEO from 1939 to 1940, and a past president of the YWCA.

Mrs. Williams was a patroness of Sigma Alpha Iota, and was a member of St. Paul Methodist Church and the Outlook Club.

She was the widow of Dr. B. F. Williams, former superintendent of the Lincoln State Hospital and later chief of the psychiatry staff at the Oregon State Hospital.

Surviving Mrs. Williams are four brothers in Idaho and a sister in California.

Hossack Says Access Road To Wiegand Basin Possible

There is a good possibility a four mile recreational access road may be built to the Wiegand Basin at Lewis and Clark Lake in northeast Nebraska this year, State Engineer John Hossack said Tuesday.

But Hossack emphasized a decision on how to expend recreational access road funds will not be made for a few weeks.

Nevertheless, he noted that the proposed road to the lake bordering South Dakota would have a high priority for the funds.

The highway engineer said the project would also have to include paving of about nine miles of Nebraska 98 from Crofton north to be of any value.

He said the highway department has money for a survey, grading and bridges along highway 98 but that money for paving would have to come out of the special access road fund.

He estimated the whole project would cost around $400,000 which would consume most of the fund, figuring the carryover from 1963.

Hossack said eventually there may be a scenic road all along the Nebraska side of the lake. But he observed the Wiegand Basin is the only Nebraska point on the lake built up now.

Gov. Frank Morrison has the final say on how the recreational fund money will be used. Hossack said a program will be worked out by the governor and him after consultation with State Game Commission Director Mel Steen and the Legislative Council road classification committee.

State Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton has urged Morrison to allocate funds for the Wiegand Basin road right away.

Hossack said Highway Department surveyors have been having trouble conducting surveys for the planned road into the basin. He explained about five landowners have refused to allow them on their property for surveying. He said the Highway Department plans to go into court and to get injunctions to get on the property so the work can be done.

Eleven Qualify As Accountants

Eleven candidates have qualified as certified public accountants as a result of successfully completing a three-day test, State Auditor Ray Johnson reported Tuesday.

They are:

Outstate — Lloyd A. Softly Jr. of Scottsbluff, N. H. Ridpath of Geneva and Robert F. Yeager of Seward.

Lincoln — John Charles Porter Jr.

Omaha — Dale L. Braddock, Virgil J. Goracke, Roger J. Holzman, Francis E. Krumi, Robert L. Perry, William J. Sweet and William H. Eberle.

Delegation Arrives

Budapest (AP) — A Brazilian trade delegation headed by Aluysio Regis Guedes Bittencourt has arrived in Hungary for talks aimed at developing Brazilian-Hungarian economic relations, the news agency MTI reported. No details were given.

Burney Confident Of GOP Nomination

Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney Tuesday said he still expects more opposition in the Republican gubernatorial primary, but predicted he'll win no matter who files.

Burney said he imagines either Hastings publisher Fred Seaton, unsuccessful GOP standard-bearer two years ago, or State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff will enter the race.

But Burney said "I feel reasonably confident in getting the nomination."

Leo Bartunek of Lincoln is the only other candidate to file.

Peterson Out

Friday, former Gov. Val Peterson of Hastings took himself out of the running, causing speculation Seaton might try again.

Carpenter has indicated he might file against Burney if Seaton doesn't.

On the Democratic side,

Gov. Frank Morrison is seeking a third term.

Burney said he agrees with the evaluation of the Morrison administration made by GOP State Chairman Robert Denney of Fairbury Monday night.

Denney told Republicans in Scottsbluff the governor has been sincere but his programs haven't been successful and it's time a Republican governor was elected again.

Anderson Last

Burney said he feels the Morrison administration hasn't pushed hard enough to get roads to recreational areas built. "We are going to have to spend more money if we are going to get the roads," Burney said.

Under a law passed by the 1963 legislature, some $350,

Load Limitations Put On Highways

Axle load limitations will be placed on 12 state highways beginning at 12:01 a.m. Monday, State Engineer John Hossack announced Tuesday.

"The restrictions are necessary to protect the highways from excessive loads before and during the spring break-up," Hossack said.

The limits will be the same on all roads; 14,000 pounds for a single axle and 24,000 pounds for a tandem.

The roads:

Nebraska 21—21 miles from Broken Bow to Oconto

Nebraska 23—18 miles from Grant to Venango

Nebraska 25—8 miles from Sutherland to Wallace

Nebraska 48—10 miles from Arnold to Cochrane

Nebraska 51—10 miles from A. d. a. m. to Lebanon

Nebraska 52—8 miles from Broadwater southwest

Nebraska 100—7 miles from Dilley north

Hossack Says Access Road To Wiegand Basin Possible

There is a good possibility a four mile recreational access road may be built to the Wiegand Basin at Lewis and Clark Lake in northeast Nebraska this year, State Engineer John Hossack said Tuesday.

But Hossack emphasized a decision on how to expend recreational access road funds will not be made for a few weeks.

Nevertheless, he noted that the proposed road to the lake bordering South Dakota would have a high priority for the funds.

The highway engineer said the project would also have to include paving of about nine miles of Nebraska 98 from Crofton north to be of any value.

He said the highway department has money for a survey, grading and bridges along highway 98 but that money for paving would have to come out of the special access road fund.

He estimated the whole project would cost around $400,000 which would consume most of the fund, figuring the carryover from 1963.

Hossack said eventually there may be a scenic road all along the Nebraska side of the lake. But he observed the Wiegand Basin is the only Nebraska point on the lake built up now.

Gov. Frank Morrison has the final say on how the recreational fund money will be used. Hossack said a program will be worked out by the governor and him after consultation with State Game Commission Director Mel Steen and the Legislative Council road classification committee.

State Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton has urged Morrison to allocate funds for the Wiegand Basin road right away.

Hossack said Highway Department surveyors have been having trouble conducting surveys for the planned road into the basin. He explained about five landowners have refused to allow them on their property for surveying. He said the Highway Department plans to go into court and to get injunctions to get on the property so the work can be done.

Eleven Qualify As Accountants

Eleven candidates have qualified as certified public accountants as a result of successfully completing a three-day test, State Auditor Ray Johnson reported Tuesday.

They are: Outstate — Lloyd A. Softly Jr. of Scottsbluff, N. H. Ridpath of Geneva and Robert F. Yeager of Seward.

Delegation Arrives

Budapest (AP) — A Brazilian trade delegation headed by Aluysio Regis Guedes Bittencourt has arrived in Hungary for talks aimed at developing Brazilian-Hungarian economic relations, the news agency MTI reported. No details were given.

Burney Confident Of GOP Nomination

Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney Tuesday said he still expects more opposition in the Republican gubernatorial primary, but predicted he'll win no matter who files.

Burney said he imagines either Hastings publisher Fred Seaton, unsuccessful GOP standard-bearer two years ago, or State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff will enter the race.

But Burney said "I feel reasonably confident in getting the nomination." Leo Bartunek of Lincoln is the only other candidate to file.

Peterson Out

Friday, former Gov. Val Peterson of Hastings took himself out of the running, causing speculation Seaton might try again.

Carpenter has indicated he might file against Burney if Seaton doesn't.

On the Democratic side,

Gov. Frank Morrison is seeking a third term.

Burney said he agrees with the evaluation of the Morrison administration made by GOP State Chairman Robert Denney of Fairbury Monday night.

Denney told Republicans in Scottsbluff the governor has been sincere but his programs haven't been successful and it's time a Republican governor was elected again.

Anderson Last

The late Victor Anderson of Lincoln, who left office in 1959, was the last Republican governor.

Burney said he feels the Morrison administration hasn't pushed hard enough to get roads to recreational areas built. "We are going to have to spend more money if we are going to get the roads," Burney said.

Under a law passed by the 1963 legislature, some $350,-

000 a year is available to ward construction of access roads to recreational areas.

Burney also said he will not back down from his advocacy of a broadened tax base although he noted a governor does not pass tax laws.

The lieutenant governor said he feels his support of a sales or income tax would hurt him in some areas but help him in others.

"But if I oppose a broadened tax base I am in effect saying I'm in favor of increasing the property tax," he said.

Load Limitations Put On Highways

Axle load limitations will be placed on 12 state highways beginning at 12:01 a.m. Monday, State Engineer John Hossack announced Tuesday.

"The restrictions are necessary to protect the highways from excessive loads before and during the spring break-up," Hossack said.

The limits will be the same on all roads; 14,000 pounds for a single axle and 24,000 pounds for a tandem.

The roads:

Nebraska 21-21 miles from Broken Bow to Oconto.
Nebraska 23-18 miles from Grant to Venango.
Nebraska 25-8 miles from Sutherland to Wallace.
Nebraska 40-10 miles from Arnold to Gothenburg.
Nebraska 41-10 miles from Adams to west.
Nebraska 76-6 miles from Alexandria south.
Nebraska 71-20 miles from Scottsbluff to Hemingford.
Nebraska 89-5 miles from Orleans south.
Nebraska 89-10 miles from Wilcoxville to Lebanon.
Nebraska 92-8 miles from Broadwater southwest.
Nebraska 103-7 miles from Diller north.
